

JOHN PHILIP HILL, Maryland Jew, who made a national reputation by the things he didn't know about the prohibition law, is evidently equally ignorant of his other issue, which is the World Court. He first identifies the World Court with the League of Nations, which is nonsense, and then, like the rest of the opposition, proceeds to discuss, not the Court, but the League. And on that he says: "The American people decided that the cause of world peace would not be advanced by the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations."

OF COURSE the American people never "decided" anything of the sort. Indeed, it is doubtful if the people themselves decided anything, in the confusion of issues, personalities and partisanship thrown at them. But if they did, the decision must at least have been on the arguments presented. And none of the American agitators ever urged that "the cause of world peace would not be advanced by the entrance of the United States into the League." What they insisted was that it was none of our business whether "the cause of world peace" was advanced or not. "Our job is not to prevent war from starting, but to keep ourselves out of it when it starts. We ought not to have gone into the last European war, and we will not go into the next. We neither know nor care whether the League of Nations will help European nations to refrain from fighting each other. Being foreigners, and therefore lacking the civilization, enlightenment and character which are the monopoly of America, they will presumably do everything wrong. But anyhow, if they do fight, we will not again be involved into fighting with them. Never again!"

This was the argument, and if the American people "decided" anything, this was it. The argument was ignorant and short-sighted, and the decision may have been. But let us have no illusions about it.

SECRETARY WORK and Commissioner Elwood Mead were hanged in effigy in Nebraska by farmers who demanded that they open the North Platte reservoir, to furnish irrigation water for their crops, which are threatened with destruction for the lack of it. A plain grievance, surely—that is, until you investigate what the grievance really is. Then you discover that the issue is not water, but the question who shall pay for it. The water is there, and the reclamation service is ready to turn it on. But the farmers will not take it unless the rest of us will pay for it. They refuse to pay for it themselves, as under the law and their contracts they are obligated to do. The only authority which could change the law, to give them their water free and charge the cost to the rest of the country, is Congress, and it has refused to do so. So the reclamation service has no choice but to carry out the existing law with regulations to avoid undue hardship. The "goat," if anybody should be Congress. But it is Work and Mead whose egos are hanged. That is human nature. When the Railroad Commission puts up the street-car fares, it is the conductor who scold.

CAN the government run business? Doubtless it can. But when you mix it with politics it doesn't. The congressional steering committee has just decided against acting on either of the Muscle Shoals bids at this session. Next session the wrangle will come, not on which bid is the best business, but on which side is virtuously "for the people," and which side wickedly "against the people." Meantime the power continues to go to waste. If the whole business matter—and this is pure business—had been left to Secretary Hoover or any other good business man, it would have been disposed of long ago, and the wheels would now be running.

"INTELLIGENCE tests in educational research will be developed to an exact science in less than a half century," said Dr. Marion R. Tyabue at an educational research conference at Palo Alto. Considering the enormous advances of the past few years, the prediction is not rash. But what will it mean in the conduct of testing, if the whole of intelligence testing becomes as exact as some of it already is, we shall be able to predict, very early in the schooling of a child, the exact point beyond which, by the best of effort, he can never in his life rise, and pretty definitely in what career he can best reach that point. The only scientific thing to do, then, will be to shunt most of the population early into vocational schools, where they will be given, with maximum economy of time and money that is now possible, the training they need for their foredoomed minor careers. But the few exceptional ones, who can easily be run through twice the present school curriculum in half its present years, and who can profit through a long lifetime of exceptional opportunities become the rare leaders of men, will be put early into special schools, whose graduates ever after are to monopolize all the responsibilities and all the larger rewards of life. Human progress will go on, as it always has, by the work of the many and the leadership of the few. But it will be in a standardized society, in which the place of each, in his right career, will be scientifically predetermined. There will be no ambitions or disappointments, justices or injustices, freedom or oppression, and, of course, no democracy.

It will be a great thing for the human species, collectively. But how would you like to live in that sort of a world, individually? Your grandchildren may have to.

EYES FOCUS ON HAWKEYE STATE POLLS

Politicians Eagerly Await Nominating Election Outcome in Iowa on Monday

PARTY MEN WORRIED

Smith Brookhart Opposes Senator Cummins in Republican Primary Race

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—"Keep an eye on Iowa," has been a watchword of politicians here for the last 14 years, and today everyone in Washington from the president to the newest congressman has an eye upon the corn belt center for tabulation of Monday's primary.

The political future of Mr. Coolidge, the hold of Chairman Butler, of the Republican National committee, on the party organization, the future attitude of the party on farm relief legislation, all may be more or less involved. Senator A. B. Cummins, recent advocate of the World Court and Haugen farm relief bill, administration supporter in most matters, and chairman of the Republican senate judiciary committee, is matched for renomination against Smith W. Brookhart, World court opponent and insurgent, who demanded that Vice President Dawes quit the Republican ticket during the last campaign. Brookhart has been, too, an advocate of even more far-reaching farm relief proposals than Cummins; he was ousted from the senate in an election contest, chiefly because Chairman Butler organized a group against him and ejected from the Republican organization of the senate with La Follette, Ladd and Frazier, after the last presidential campaign. If Brookhart should come back to confront Butler, the senate would interpret the result—coming on top of other recent administration primary reverses—as indicating that the corn belt was again in revolt. If Cummins is renominated, the recent whisperings that Mr. Coolidge's power is slipping a trifle will be stilled.

SIBERIAN NATIVES STARVE TO DEATH

NOME, Alaska, June 5.—Hundreds of Siberian natives are dead from starvation and others took their own lives to avoid such a fate when food and hunting supplies failed to reach their settlement at Indian Point, across Bering strait from Alaska. News of the plight of the Russian trappers was given to Capt. Ira Rink, of the schooner Trader, who returned here after 10 days' trading trip to Little Diomed Island. While there, Gustav Nisater and Victor Carlson, missionaries, said a Soviet school teacher had reached the island in a small boat from Pauline, Siberia. The teacher said the Soviet government had failed to provide the usual stocks of food and ammunition to the settlement. Unable to hunt walrus, the natives ate their dogs, but were unable to tide over the winter.

POLES PROCLAIM STATE OF SIEGE

WARSAW, June 5.—The government today proclaimed a state of siege throughout Posen and Pomorlen. The newspaper Kurier Warszawski publishes an interview with Acting Premier Bartel, in which he is quoted as saying: "The proclamation was issued in compliance with the demand of Governor Wachowiak, of Posen, who is advised that German chauvinists in Posen and Pomorlen are plotting a coup against the Polish state." The regulations provided for in the emergency proclamation include a 9 p. m. curfew for the districts and also authorize the confiscation of foreign newspapers.

WORK ON STADIUM
FRESNO, June 5.—Work is under way today on an athletic stadium for the Fresno State college, after ground-breaking ceremonies yesterday. The stadium will be patterned on the Stanford stadium.

Laguna Edition Will Be Issued Monday

The annual special Laguna Beach edition of The Santa Ana Register will be published Monday, in an eight-page section of all editions of the paper. The edition perhaps is the most comprehensive ever published on the beautiful beach city. It is well filled with pictures and the beauty spots and prominent buildings of the artists' colony. It is replete with information on the little city and a paper that can be sent easy to relatives, and will graphically tell the story of the "Riviera of America."

THAW, EVELYN AND RUSSELL HOLD REUNION

(By United Press)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 5.—The Thaws appear to have buried the hatchet. Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White and Evelyn Nesbit, the wife, ever whom he killed White, appeared to have resumed the role of friends again today, after almost 20 years. With them was their 15-year-old son, Russell Thaw. Both refused today to discuss whether they had effected a complete reconciliation or had simply decided to end the state of "armed neutrality" which had kept them apart. Atlantic City was astonished last night when Thaw, Evelyn and Russell, with a lawyer, appeared at a big hotel and dined together like friends, after a long separation. The purpose of the meeting, both Evelyn and Thaw declared, was to frame a strong denial of a Chicago story that a boy, named Russell Thaw had entertained feminine companions in a lavish fashion and neglected to pay his hotel bill. "There have been many troubles, but this is too cruel, for my boy has never been in Chicago except when he was with me," was the text of a signed statement given out by Evelyn Thaw after the dinner. Evelyn seemed elated over the evening and very reluctant to say anything about a reconciliation. Thaw said he liked Atlantic City and smiled when asked whether he intended making his permanent home here. After dinner, the couple taxied to a telephone office to send messages denying the Chicago story and later, after a walk on the boardwalk, spent the evening at a local theater. "We are very friendly," Thaw said. Thaw, who said he was leaving Atlantic City today, seemed annoyed when questioned about his apparent paternal interest in Russell.

Block Highway Bill in Senate

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The good roads bill, appropriating $185,000,000 for federal aid for state highway building in the next two years, was blocked in the senate today when Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, objected to continuing consideration of it under a calendar agreement. It was returned to the calendar to await its term. Bingham's speech attacking it as a paternalistic activity and in violation of state's rights.

Register Far Ahead With Extras

Whether the story of the finding of Aimee Semple McPherson alive and well in Edmonton, Canada, proves to be true or false, it was "picking" for the "newsies," who sold extra Registers like the proverbial hot cakes. One of The Register's newsboys in Santa Ana earned $7 selling extras in less than one hour. Others did almost as well. Between 3000 and 4000 extras were sold by the boys all over the county. The Register beat the Los Angeles papers on the streets by at least two hours and was circulated in many parts of the county where none of the Los Angeles papers made an appearance. The story of the finding of the missing evangelist in Edmonton was carried by all of the great news agencies—United Press, Associated Press and International News Service—and all of the Los Angeles papers issued extras. The story was and is believed to be true, but at the time of going to press it had not been fully verified.

EDITOR FAILS IN EFFORT TO GAIN PARDON

Governor Refuses to Order Release of Eureka Man Jailed for Contempt $2000 OR 1000 DAYS

Sentence Excessive, Says Prisoner, But Richardson Declines to Act in Case

(By United Press)
SACRAMENTO, June 5.—Alfred Lindsley, Eureka editor, confined to the Humboldt county jail for contempt of court, was refused a pardon by Gov. Friend W. Richardson today. Lindsley was sentenced to pay $2000 or spend 1000 days in jail, and has not paid the fine. The editor, who was found guilty of publishing articles for the delinquent purpose of influencing the judgment of jurors and witnesses, embarrassing the judge and interfering with the administration of justice, claimed that the sentence imposed was excessive. The governor, in commenting on the case, said in part: "Lindsley has had his day in court and his case has been passed upon by the appellate and supreme courts of this state. His legal and constitutional rights have not been violated. The issue presented to me is one of maintaining respect for the courts and a fair trial for those charged with crime, and has nothing to do with the liberty of the press."

HOLLYWOOD BOY ORATORY WINNER

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Herbert Wering, 17, of Hollywood, Calif., who made fewer and milder oratorical gestures than any of the other contestants, won the third National Oratorical contest here last night. Vice President Dawes presented the cup. Chief Justice Taft of the U. S. supreme court, and four associate justices selected the winner. As a result of his victory, Wering will represent the United States in the first international contest, to be held here in October. All seven final contestants will be taken on a European tour next month.

Tia Juana Mayor To Marry In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—Frederico Palacio, mayor of Tia Juana, and Miss Natalia Moreno, of Ensenada, were to be married here this afternoon, by Judge Harry Holzer. After the wedding, the newlyweds plan a honeymoon trip by automobile to San Francisco and other northern points, returning to Tia Juana in about two weeks. The Mexican mayor gave his age as 33, and his bride-elect, 20.

AIMEE SEMPLE M'PHERSON

Woman pastor of Angelus temple, Los Angeles, who disappeared from the Ocean Park beach, May 18, and who today was reported to have been located in Edmonton, Alta., Canada. Mrs. McPherson was reported to have been drowned while bathing in the surf. An intensive search of the sea at Venice was conducted in an effort to locate her body.

CONGRESS GETS FOUR ARRESTED READY TO QUIT IN BOMBING OF FOR VACATION U. S. LEGATION

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Hopes of an adjournment by June 15, administration leaders today decided to enact only three more bills, once the farm relief legislation is out of the way, before sending congress home on its annual vacation. The favored bills will be the French debt settlement, the Cope-land radio control bill and the new $36,000,000 rivers and harbors bill. As a result of the decision the Republican steering committee of the senate met and declined to add any other measures to the program. The French debt pact, however, will prove the biggest stumbling block to the June 15 adjournment date should the French parliament ratify the terms. In this event congress will be held in session until the pact is approved. Should the French reject it the pact will be allowed to die in the senate, as it already has passed the house. Farm bloc leaders meanwhile sought to speed up action on their combination farm relief bill, which includes a revised McNary-Haugen export measure, beside the administration's co-operative bill. According to Senator McNary, Republican, of Oregon, a farm bloc leader, proponents of the relief plan will turn the bill over to its opponents early next week in the hope of getting a final vote within a week.

Ruth Slams 19th Homer of Season

CLEVELAND, O., June 5.—Babe Ruth today slammed out his 19th home run of the season in the third inning of the New York-Cleveland game here. Gehrig, who was on base, scored ahead of him, giving the Yankees a 2 to 0 lead. Today's homer put Ruth five ahead to date on his record year, 1921, when he hit his 59 four bases during the season.

DETECTIVES AT EDMONTON POSITIVE IN IDENTIFICATION OF MISSING WOMAN PASTOR

Los Angeles Evangelist Arrives In Alberta City In Auto Bearing California License, Claim FOLLOWED BY ANOTHER CAR

(By United Press)
EDMONTON, Alta., June 5.—Some doubt was held today as to whether a woman found here is Aimee Semple McPherson or another woman from Los Angeles. Zelma Argue, sister of Pastor Argue, who is officiating in the McPherson temple, Los Angeles, looked at the woman suspected of being Mrs. McPherson and then told authorities positively that the woman was not the missing evangelist.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 5.—There is no record of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, missing Los Angeles evangelist, according to officials of the Corona hotel here, where she was reported to have been located by a detective agency. The hotel officials, however, report that Miss Blanche Potter, of Los Angeles, has been staying at the hotel for three weeks and James H. Gould, also of Los Angeles, has been at the hotel for a month. City officials have commenced an investigation and are endeavoring to locate the private detective who sent the wire to Los Angeles authorities.

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—Aimee Semple McPherson, missing evangelist, has been found in Edmonton, Canada, according to a telegram received here today by Chief of Police James A. Davis. According to the wire, Mrs. McPherson was positively identified by three operatives of the International Detective agency. The telegram, signed by "Inspector Middleton, International Detectives," said the revivalist arrived via Calgary yesterday in an automobile.

The machine was from Los Angeles, and, according to a check on the license plate, belongs to Blanche Potter, of this city. It was followed by another automobile, with a lens plate said to belong to James H. Gould, of this city. Inspector Middleton's wire was as follows:

Aimee Semple McPherson arrived Friday via Calgary in car, California D-25121, Studebaker, followed by car California D-24586. Staying Corona hotel. Positively identified by three operatives. McPherson known by sender while in Toronto. Wire instructions. Inspector Middleton, International Detectives, according to local detectives, is head of a private detective agency and member of the Canadian Royal Northwest Mounted Police of his district. RELATIVES TALK Relatives of both Gould and Mrs. Potter told the United Press that neither was a member of Angelus temple, Mrs. McPherson's tabernacle here, and discounted the theory the evangelist was aided by them in a disappearance. Gould's wife here, questioned by detectives, said that her husband, a landscape artist, left here on April 13 for Edmonton, where he had a commission to do some paintings. With Gould and Mrs. McPherson, according to the advice from Canada, was Mrs. Blanche Potter, also of Los Angeles. Mrs. Potter left Los Angeles after Gould, at "approximately the same day Mrs. McPherson disappeared," Mrs. Gould said. Mrs. McPherson disappeared on May 18, last, supposedly while swimming in the surf at Ocean Park. There were no eye-witnesses to the drowning and when her body failed to come ashore, there arose a wave of rumors and reports that she was alive. CARRIES PASSENGER Continuing her story, Mrs. Gould said that Mrs. Potter, on her trip to Edmonton, carried as a passenger, a Mrs. Mary Phillips, who was an ardent disciple of Mrs. McPherson. Both Gould and Mrs. Potter had attended services at Angelus temple, the million-dollar McPherson tabernacle, according to Mrs. Gould.

"I received a letter from my husband, written from the Corona hotel, Edmonton, yesterday," said Mrs. Gould. "In a previous letter, I had commented on the disappearance of Mrs. McPherson. His only reference to her, which was in his last letter, was, 'She was a good woman.'"

Mrs. Laura T. Tucker, mother of Mrs. Potter, denied that her daughter had any connection with Angelus temple, and insisted she had left here because of the disappearance of Mrs. McPherson. DIDN'T KNOW AIMEE "She never even knew Mrs. McPherson," Mrs. Tucker said. "My daughter heard her only over the

WILLING TO HELP "Mrs. Potter was always doing that, giving people rides in her car if she thought they wanted a lift. She is that kind of woman, spontaneous and ready to help." Mrs. Tucker said that her daughter would have wired her if she knew anything about Mrs. McPherson. "If Blanche had found her, she would have notified everyone here immediately, for she would know how anxious all Los Angeles is for news." "I have had cards from all along her route, letting us know where she is and telling us how she was getting along. There is nothing unusual about my daughter's trip to Canada. It was just part of her business. I am positive there is a serious mistake."

WIRE FOR DETAILS Both Police Chief Davis and District Attorney Asa Keyes have wired authorities in Edmonton for "full particulars" on the asserted arrival there of the noted evangelist. Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, places no credence in the "discovery." "It's another press-agent stunt," said the business manager of Angelus temple. "If my daughter is in Edmonton, I want her back by all means," she told police. "And if she is there you can tell Canadian authorities to hold everybody." Mrs. Kennedy reported her $25,000 reward offered for the finding alive of Mrs. McPherson. "The offer was to have been cancelled tonight, but now it will hold in effect for another week," she said.

FOUR INDICTED IN CONNECTION WITH OIL CASE

Four more indictments, against officials connected with affairs of the defunct Pacific corporation, in which Orange county investors were alleged to have been despoiled of production dividends, resulted yesterday in the arrest of B. R. Parrott, Herman Fischer and Moses A. Fleming, of Long Beach and Los Angeles, and J. L. Richardson, Riverside attorney, well known in this county.

The quartet was indicted for alleged embezzlement of $30,000 in cash and securities, belonging to a group of Orange county ranchers, who invested in production of well No. 16 on the Thompson lease, Signal Hill.

James L. Allen, Santa Ana attorney, who has represented the local ranchers in various civil actions growing out of the transaction, which took place in 1923, was instrumental in securing the Los Angeles indictments, having been summoned before the grand jury there as a witness, in the cases of the four just indicted, as well as that of Louis Kleindienst, Los Angeles attorney and former manager of the Pacific corporation, who was indicted several weeks ago.

On 14 Counts
Parrott, Fischer, Fleming and Richardson were indicted on 14 counts. They were accused of conspiring to embezzle the cash and notes placed in the hands of Parrott by the ranchers, under a contract that the securities and money would be returned to the owners if not invested as Parrott was instructed.

The notes, it is claimed, got into Fischer's hands, were indorsed to Fleming and later were sold to others, including Pomona college, the Farmer's bank, of Camarillo, and the Merchants' Mortgage and Finance company. The mortgage and Finance company brought suit upon notes against Henry Marquart and J. G. Kraft, who retained Richardson to defend them. Richardson, it is said, originally had advised with the ranchers regarding their investment. It was stated that he then allowed the suit to go by default. This was the only one of several suits against the various ranchers that were successful. Allen and James L. Davis defended actions brought by Pomona college against William Haterman, W. W. Leitchfield, C. O. Field, W. B. Lamp and W. A. Knuth, and the college was unable to collect on the notes. Allen and Davis also defeated an attempt by the Camarillo bank to recover on notes of Dwight P. Goodrich.

Attorney for Parrott
The asserted fact that Richardson had been made attorney for Parrott, combined with his connection with the suit against Marquart and Kraft, which was allowed to go by default, was declared to have had an influence upon the indictment proceedings. It was charged before the grand jury that Richardson, Parrott, Fischer and Fleming all were involved in a conspiracy to embezzle the $30,000.

Kleindienst, previously indicted, will face trial July 8 in Superior Judge Burnell's court, Los Angeles. Allen stated here today that disbarment proceedings have been instituted against Kleindienst in Los Angeles.

BAGGENBAGGAGE IS LATONIA WINNER

LATONIA RACE TRACK, KY., June 5.—Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour stock farm repeated its historical performance of this year's Kentucky Derby when his entries ran one two in the $25,000 added Latonia Derby this afternoon.

Baggenbaggage, who finished second in his stablemate, Bubbling Over, in the Kentucky Derby, won this afternoon, with Boot to Boot, a non-starter in the Kentucky Derby, second.

Rhinoc, owned by Mrs. George B. Cox, of Cincinnati, was third. The time for the mile and a half was 2:32 1-5.

Court Notes

Prosecution Finishes
The prosecution had completed its case late yesterday against alleged La Habra election rioters, when court adjourned until Monday. The defense of William Noble, John and Frank Bradford and Carl Miller, accused of participating in a riot, will commence next week. The case may go to the jury Tuesday, it was stated today.

Plaintiff in Two Suits
The Continental Collection and Adjusting company were plaintiffs today in a suit against the firm of Rogers and Johnson for $900 alleged to be due on five promissory notes. The same plaintiff has brought suit against H. F. Nickens for $362.87 on a merchandise account.

Bank Is Plaintiff
The First National Bank of Holtville has filed a suit in superior court against C. N. Stewart, to recover $350 alleged to be due on a note.

Two Actions Filed
In two actions on file in superior court, Mr. and Mrs. George Barfoot appear as plaintiffs against Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Barfoot. One suit seeks to foreclose a mortgage of $10,700 against five acres north of Anaheim. The other action involves an attempt to foreclose a $2100 mortgage against property in the same vicinity. Leonard Evans, Anaheim attorney, is counsel for the plaintiffs.

TUMBLING EXHIBITION WILL BE GIVEN BY BLUE DEVILS AT CHAMBER MEETING

The Eight Blue Devils, who will appear at St. Ann's Inn Monday night, in connection with the "Red" Grange meeting being sponsored by the Junior and senior divisions of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. The Eight Blue Devils appeared at the Wampus ball this year and are said to be the fastest human tumblers on earth. They will appear at Yost's Broadway theater after showing at the "Red" Grange meeting.

AIMEE FOUND IN EDMONTON, SAYS REPORT

"I do not know the Blanche Potter, of Los Angeles, in whose car she is supposed to have arrived at Edmonton. She is not a member of Angelus temple and was unknown to Sister McPherson, I am sure. "If anyone can prove Sister McPherson is alive, Angelus temple will pay them the $25,000 reward offered, regardless of whether or not it is publicly withdrawn."

Mrs. Kennedy has maintained consistently that Mrs. McPherson met death by drowning, while swimming in the surf at Ocean Park, 18 days ago. No one saw the evangelist go under, and as a consequence it has been repeatedly rumored she is alive.

CHIEF SENDS WIRE
Chief of Police Davis wired the chief constable, at Edmonton, instructing him to round up the individuals named in Middleton's telegram. "Question them and rush me all details," wired the police chief. Chief Davis declines to say whether or not he believed the woman "shadowed" in Edmonton was Mrs. McPherson.

35 YEARS OLD
The missing evangelist was born in Oxford county, Ont., Canada, 35 years ago. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy, of Salford, Dereham township. She was educated at the Ingersoll Collegiate Institute, where she made a special study of elocution. She came to the United States shortly after her marriage in 1908, at a mission in Ingersoll, Ont., to Robert Semple, an itinerant evangelist.

DAUGHTER OF AL SMITH IS MARRIED

ALBANY, N. Y., June 5.—Miss Emily Smith, elder daughter of Gov. Al Smith, today became the wife of Maj. John A. Warner, superintendent of the state police, in one of the simplest wedding ceremonies that could be performed under the Roman Catholic ritual.

The full military staff of the governor attended the function, lending a dash of color that could not otherwise be supplied and, as the married pair left the church, the couple passed under an arch of swords, the staff members insisting on according this honor.

The strictest ritual of the church was followed, with Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York, officiating.

The choir of St. Vincent Ferrer's church, of New York, was brought to Albany especially for the wedding to sing the mass. After the church ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to 1500 guests at the executive mansion.

Acrobatic Act Is Obtained Through Courtesy of Yost Theater

The "Eight Blue Devils" whirlwind acrobats, will appear Monday night at St. Ann's Inn, as a feature of the meeting of the Junior and senior divisions of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. It was announced today by Robert Fernandez, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Arrangements were made by President Mason Yould with Harold Yost, of Yost's Broadway theater, for the appearance of the tumblers.

"Red" Grange is to be the main attraction at the meeting which will be thrown open to all men of the city. The Santa Ana municipal band will play. A short motion picture will be shown. Burr McIntosh, well known figure of stage and screen, will be the principal speaker. McIntosh will deliver an address patriotic in character, embellished from the almost endless wealth of interesting incidents in his personal career. His life as an actor, writer, publisher and photographer and the public-spirited enterprises in which he has engaged have carried him to all parts of the world and brought him constantly into contact with the absorbingly unusual.

He was a war correspondent during both the Spanish-American and World wars. Before leaving for France, during the latter conflict, he personally sold more than $5,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds and raised $500,000 for the Red Cross. He has been friend and intimate of the leading figures of both theatrical and national life in the United States for 40 years and his address is expected to be one of exceptional interest.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6:30, with dinner.

Prince Pleased With Americans

NEW YORK, June 5.—Though his strenuous routine of sightseeing and being lionized is keeping him going at a tremendous pace, Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus, of Sweden, continues to reiterate his opinion that America is a wonderful country.

He considers President and Mrs. Coolidge charming, he stated; thinks Thomas Edison a wonderful man, and considers various of the capital's architectural feats beautiful.

If he were not a crown prince, he said, he would like to be an archaeologist, a museum official or a newspaper reporter. However, he intimated, he didn't expect to quit his present job for any of the three.

Fire Danger In Forests Seen

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Dangerous forest fire conditions in the interior of northern California were forecast for the week end by the U. S. weather bureau here today. Continued hot weather, coupled with a period of relatively low humidity, brought about this condition, it was stated.

The chief danger, however, appeared to be from the light northerly winds that are sweeping over the interior region.

NEW VOYAGE TO ARCTIC PLANNED

NOME, Alaska, June 5.—New lands may be discovered near the north pole by another Arctic expedition and the voyage of the dirigible Norge did not prove there are no such lands, Capt. Umberto Nobile today told the United Press.

He predicted another search in 1928. "I am convinced land can be found not far from the American coast," Nobile said. "Our work of exploration has just begun and the experience we have gained opens the way to regular aeronautical expeditions to learn more."

Italy is likely to take the initiative, now that her aircraft has made the successful flight, Captain Nobile believes.

Heavy fogs prevented extensive searches for land, Nobile said, and it was impossible to see more than 20 miles from the dirigible.

"While we can conclude no great continent exists between the pole and the north coast of Alaska," he said, "no one can conclude that some lands do not exist outside the route we took."

Replying to questions concerning the official name of the expedition, Nobile said it was the "Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile Trans Polar flight," and so pronounced by the president of the Aero Club of Norway, in the presence of Premier Mussolini.

ALLEGED PAROLE PLOT LAID BARE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—With six convict clerks in solitary confinement and the clerk of the prison board dismissed on charges of "incompetency and neglect," the state prison board believed today that a convict's "underground railway," designed to give parole freedom to underserving convicts, had been abolished.

According to members of the prison board, the plot, whereby some 20 prisoners would have gained their freedom upon parole had it not been discovered, involved the failure of the prison clerks assigned to the duty of preparing the records of the prisoners coming up for parole, to include all of the essential data. Previous convictions, prison discipline and other features were omitted, it was claimed.

The board held that it was the duty of Carl Bartlett, clerk of the board, to check these reports and that he failed to do so.

Sunken Steamer To Be Abandoned

NEW YORK, June 5.—Officials of the Hudson River day line have practically decided not to raise and recommission the steamer Washington Irving, probably the finest river boat in the world, which sank after a collision earlier in the week. It was stated that it would be cheaper to build a new vessel.

Union City, N. J., June 5.—Angelo Sacco, his wife and seven children narrowly escaped death here today when Sacco's restaurant was wrecked by a bomb. Police believe Sacco's life was sought because he soon will testify in a murder trial. Achilles Zeni was fatally shot on March 3 last in Sacco's restaurant. Antonio Montemario was arrested and is now awaiting trial in the case.

RELATION OF ELECTRICITY TO AGRICULTURE WILL BE DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

For the purpose of discussing the relation of electricity to agriculture, a conference, called by the California Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture, will be held Monday, in the Ebell clubhouse, Santa Ana.

The session will be an all-day affair, with a number of prominent speakers, who will tell the results of an investigation which has been made in the state over a period of the last two years.

All growers and others, interested in discussing results of the investigation and who are interested in electricity on farms, are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

In 1924, the director of a national committee, organized to determine the economic uses of electricity in agriculture, met with a group of California men, representing the agricultural and electrical industries. A committee was named to direct an investigation of the relation electricity bears to agriculture in California.

The day's program will be as follows:

10:30 a. m.—Call to order and remarks by J. J. Duell, chairman of the day, who is manager of the law utilities department, California Farm Bureau federation.

10:40 a. m.—Address of welcome, by Roy Bishop, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

10:50 a. m.—Treasurer's report, by N. R. Sutherland, Pacific Gas and Electric company.

11:30 a. m.—"The Agricultural Outlook," by W. S. Rosecrans, vice president California Farm Bureau federation.

12 m. to 1:30 p. m.—Noon recess. 1:30 p. m.—Music in the Ebell clubhouse.

1:50 p. m.—Interests of Business

Loans That Never Fall Due

One of the special features of our loans is the freedom of responsibility of renewing your papers. This item in itself releases the borrower from considerable worry as well as expense. We make loans to take up existing mortgages as well as loans to build homes. If your loan is coming due soon plan to repay it on convenient monthly installments. Every payment made reduces the principal of the loan and gets you nearer the goal of being out of debt. We have several different monthly payments to offer in order that you may choose the one suitable for your income.

A DEATH TRAP exists at the entrance to Newport Bay, where FOURTEEN HUMAN LIVES have been sacrificed in ONE YEAR through delay in carrying out plans to make it SAFE! Safe for the hundreds of men who go down to the sea that one of our essential foods may not fail us; Safe for our boys and girls and our neighbors' children, who come here to play; Safe for the visitor who, seeking shelter in our bay, falls into this DEATH TRAP that we have permitted to exist at Orange county's door.

and Whereas:

We, as individuals or as a county, are our brother's keeper; and here we can save not only his life but in the very saving bring to our county the ONE THING that will make possible her swift growth and insure a means of livelihood for the children growing up in our midst.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT:

Because of all this we believe that on June 10, the GREAT DAY for Orange county, The PEOPLE will without hesitation vote YES to build for Orange county a great and useful HARBOR.

Resolution adopted unanimously at a meeting of the Ministerial association of Orange County after viewing conditions at Orange County Harbor.

TWO ENTER COUNTY JAIL FOR SPEEDING

Two men, one a Santa Ana, convicted of speeding 50 miles an hour, entered the Orange county jail last night to spend five days.
They were convicted in Justice
Kenneth Morrison's court.

They are Alfred K. Loerch, 23, traveling salesman, of Santa Ana, who was arrested by State Officer Vaughn, on the Newport road, charged with speeding 50 miles an hour, and W. A. Calhoun, 23, Coronado, who was arrested several months ago by Ray Bradfield, state officer.

The two men will be released
Wednesday morning.

MAN IS RELEASED, THEN REARRESTED

Jack Falk, arrested in Los Angeles Thursday on a charge of issuing a fictitious check and returned to jail here yesterday, was dismissed in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, on motion of the district attorney.

The man immediately was rearrested by Jailer Joe Irvine and turned over to San Bernardino officers, who, it was said, want him on a like charge.

Falk was taken to San Bernardino yesterday afternoon.

U. S. Quarantine Will Be Lifted

SACRAMENTO, June 5.—By order of the federal government, quarantine restrictions, imposed because of the outbreak of the hoof and mouth disease in California, will be removed June 10, G. H. Hecke, state director of agriculture, said today.
The state will lift its quarantine simultaneously. The ban will be removed one year from the date the last case of the disease was discovered in the state, June 10, 1925.

ORANGE COUNTY WOMEN ATTEND CATHOLIC MEET

Santa Ana and Orange county was well represented at the biennial convention of the National Council of Catholic Women, diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego, held in the Catholic Women's clubhouse, Los Angeles,
Thursday and Friday. Miss Elizabeth Paine and Miss Armella Klatt were delegates from Capistrano Institute, Y.L.L.; Mrs.
Clyde Ashen and Mrs. Olive Lopez represented St. Joseph's Altar society, and Mrs. Alice Hallley and Mrs. Charles Borchard were chosen for St. Anne's Altar society. These are the only three Santa Ana organizations affiliated with the National Council.

Other Orange county women in attendance were Mrs. F. J. Snyder, county president; Mrs. Chas.
Grim and Mrs. M. J. Bradley, of Anaheim, and Mrs. A. H. Rothaermel, including county president, Fullerton.

Miss Mary J. Workman, who has been president of the Diocesan council since its organization, was re-elected; Mrs. Alice Tipton was named recording secretary; Mrs. Frederick Valentine, treasurer, and Miss Rose Mullin, auditor. Mrs. Olive Lopez was honored with the unanimous election to the board of directors, to represent the altar societies of the council.

Mrs. Fanny Moore Passes In Orange

ORANGE, June 5.—Funeral services for Mrs. Fanny Moore, 54, who died at her home at 261
North Orange street last night, will be held from the Gilgoly parlors Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mrs. Moore is survived by her husband, Frank L. Moore, two daughters, Miss Addie, of Orange, and Mrs. Chelsea Moore, of Cajon; a sister, Mrs. Denton Welher, of Newcastle, Pa., and a brother, W. H. Shepard, also of Newcastle.

INJUNCTION AND DAMAGES SOUGHT

A suit for an injunction and $25-000 damages was brought today in superior court by Jessie L. Toler of La Habra, against George H.
Kibler, E. Y. Partridge and others, the action being based upon alleged diversion of storm water upon the property of the plaintiff.

According to the plaintiff, whose property is near the ranches of the defendants, the latter planted trees in the wash or channel of the water, causing it to be diverted across a highway and upon the lands of the plaintiff. Gullies were washed between the orange trees of the plaintiff and about five acres of orchard were covered deeply with soil, sand and debris, it was claimed.

The plaintiff asks that the defendants be restrained from blocking the natural channel of the storm water, in addition to paying for the damages already alleged to have been caused.

Attorney Lee Utley, Los Angeles, is counsel for the plaintiff.

MRS. COGBURN, PIONEER, DIES IN HOME HERE

Mrs. Ruth Cogburn, 87, pioneer citizen of Santa Ana, who for the last 38 years has lived at 202 South
Main street, died in her home at 4:10 a. m. today, following an illness of several months.

Funeral services will be held in the Smith and Tuthill funeral parlors at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon and burial will be made in Fair-haven cemetery.

Mrs. Cogburn was a native of New Brunswick, Canada, but came to Santa Ana from Michigan in 1888.

She was the mother of Mrs.
Stephen Ross, who resides at the family home, and was a grandmother of Dr. Garland Ross, dentist here.

Mrs. Cogburn was the widow of the late Capt. Robert Cogburn, who died in Santa Ana eight years ago.

Police Asked to Search for Boy

Police authorities here have been enlisted to aid in a search being made for Russell Burkholder, 8, Los Angeles boy, who is reported missing from his home.
The boy is thought to have run away from home and started for Santa Ana on June 1. He is 43 inches in height, has dark hair and eyes and was barefoot at the time he last was seen.

WOMAN DRIVER RUNS DOWN AND KILLS MEXICAN

An unidentified Mexican was fatally injured this afternoon, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. B. A. Shinn, of 845 Shamrock street, Norwalk.

The man was rushed to the Fullerton General hospital, but was dead upon arrival there. The accident occurred on Magnolia avenue, two miles northwest of Anaheim. According to Mrs. Shinn, the accident was unavoidable. She told police that her view was obstructed by an air compressor machine near the ditch where the Mexican had been working. She says that he started to cross the street without looking to see if there was a machine approaching.

The Shinn car knocked the man several feet and then ran over him, it is said.

MANY VISITORS EXAMINE WORK IN HIGH SCHOOL

Are the schools returning value for the millions yearly expended on their upkeep?

Sometimes Mr. Taxpayer is dubious.

But the hundreds of Santa Ana persons who attended the annual Community day exhibit in Santa Ana polytechnic high school yesterday were convinced of the practical worth of a public school education.

Extensive displays in vocational work and academic studies were arranged for the visitors. The science building, especially, was thronged with persons desiring to see the art, science and domestic science exhibits.

The annual occurrence of the light fuses blowing out was the only mishap to impair the success of Community day.

Many parents visited the classrooms. During the afternoon, the Girls' league entertained the incoming sophomore girls by showing them about the campus.

Surprise was expressed by the visitors over the scope and thoroughness of the high school courses.

Shops were in full operation. The printing department issued a small paper, "Vocational Doings." The wood shop, forge and mechanical drawing departments showed the results of the year's work.

Host Is Surprised by Presence of Friends On His Birthday

LITTLE suspecting that there was anything lurking behind the invitation of his friend, James Irvine Jr., to accompany him on a business call, Charles Swanner accepted the invitation last Tuesday night, late in the evening, to his rooming house.

Bonny Brae home, accompanied by Mr. Irvine, only to learn that in his absence, a group of friends had gathered and were waiting to extend him birthday greetings.

For Mr. Irvine was conspiring with Mrs. Swanner in her plans for a birthday surprise party honoring her husband, and the guests entered into the plans with quite as much enthusiasm. The evening which followed was devoted to cards and merriment. Mrs. Swanner gave attractive prizes to the four making special scores, Mrs. Ridley Smith and Gene Robinson, high and Miss Effie Douglas and Mr. Irvine, low.

Cards were followed by refreshments served in two courses, and Mrs. Swanner adorned her tables with attractive flowers in pink and white to harmonize with other floral appointments. With the second course was served a beautiful birthday cake, gleaming with candles and having the traditional ring, coin, thimble and wishbone of all birthday cakes.

An interesting feature which completed the surprise for the host, was the presentation of a large assortment of gifts from his assembled friends and also from the Exchange club members who had celebrated his birthday at their noon luncheon despite his absence from the event.

Enjoying the merry evening with the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Ridley Smith, Mr. and Mrs. B. Z. McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. John Martell, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Traveler, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clem, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Switzer, Miss Effie Douglas, Miss Maurine Mathis, Messrs. Gene Douglas, Floyd Croddy and James Irvine Jr.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Baptist
Assembling at the church for a morning of valuable and interesting work, members of the Woman's society of the First Baptist church on Wednesday, completed 75 out-door sleeping garments for use in the children's health camp this summer.

After such a busy forenoon, the covered dish luncheon was even more than usually welcome, and then to add to the interest was the motif inspiring. For occasion was taken to compliment four members of the society who will spend the summer abroad, Miss Jennie Lasby, Mrs. Elmer Burns, Miss Lulu Minter and Miss Irene Catland. In their honor, tables each bore a small "ship a-sailing," and other decorations suggestive of the anticipated voyages. An unusually delicious luncheon menu was served and the interval made a very happy one.

In the afternoon business session, election of officers was of pre-eminent importance and Mrs. M. M. Holmes was returned to the presidency with marked enthusiasm from her loyal members. Assisting her will be Mrs. F. L. Austin, Mrs. Warren Brakeman, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Mrs. H. H. Reeves, Mrs. Harry Kern and Mrs. E. A. Davidson as first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth vice-presidents; Miss Gertrude Minor, recording secretary; Mrs. Mac Robbins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. E. Coulter, treasurer and Miss Ida Nay, historian.

Mrs. Otto S. Russell presided over the missionary program on the subject of the Philippines and introduced Mrs. H. G. Upham as speaker.

Mrs. H. G. Upham as speaker, her husband was in government service. She had traveled over their country extensively and always with her keen powers of observation brought into play. Her enlightening talk was made even more interesting by a display of curios including woven fabrics and baskets in which the Islanders excel.

The missionary phase of the subject was in charge of Mrs. Emily Cox and presented by Mrs. William Gibbs. To add to the interest of the afternoon was a special solo by Miss Laura Joiner.

Presbyterian Aid
Welcomed to the hospitable home of Mrs. Alex Brownridge, 1414 North Main street, the members of the northwest section of the Aid society of the First Presbyterian church met for their last regular meeting before the vacation period. The attractive rooms were filled with many choice blossoms which later found their way to cheer the ill and shut-in members who could not be present. The usual business routine was conducted by Mrs. H. N. Brothers, section leader.

Local Verse-writer Wins New Honors

Miss Beulah May's stay at Lake Elsinore, where she is spending a few weeks, was rendered delightful indeed by the news which reached her there a few days ago that she had won first prize in the annual poetry contest of the Southern California Women's Press club.

Not only did Miss May's entry take the highest honors, but she had a personal letter from Dr. Allison (Gaw) asking permission to use the winning poem and a second contribution by Miss May, in the Lyric West, leading magazine of verse in the western states.

Miss May's ventures in the realm of verse have been attended by an amazing and gratifying success, her work having been accepted by leading magazines all over the country.

A marked exotic charm and beauty of imagery is a feature of her work, and she is particularly happy in the strength and originality of her phrasings.

Her friends are trusting that her stay at Elsinore will not only bring a return to health but will yield her a wealth of material for use in future writings.

Piano Recital

Miss Haughton assembling at the Chandler music room Thursday evening, an appointed crowd heard a group of talented young people, piano pupils of Miss Carolyn Haughton, present a program of marked merit and interest.

The program really was in two sections, the first devoted to various composers and opened by a Schumann group rendered in finished manner by Mary-Anna Deaver, a talented little maid only ten years old. Another outstanding number in this group was Rubenstein's "Melody in F" played by Florence Thompson, and the first movement in Mendelssohn's "Concerto in G Minor" played by Grace Haskell with Miss Haughton as her accompanist.

The second half of the program was devoted to Grieg numbers and the program concluded with the remarkable offering of the Peer Gynt Suite by two of Miss Haughton's advanced pupils adding on the program, Miss Veda Mitchell and Miss Virginia Lowell. Their interpretation of the various motifs of the masterpiece was delightful and was aided by the story of the suite as related by Miss Mitchell.

The young people making such a gratifying success of the recital included Marguerite Scott, Marian Crookshank, Frances Bowman, Anne Hilton, Eunice Hoffman, Avery Johnson, Mary Anna Baxter, Billy Beeman, Virginia Adams and two groups of two-piano numbers played by Myrtle Hingsworth and Lorna Allen, and Florence Thompson and Virginia Adams.

Miss Jean Ross
Pupils of Miss Jean Ross appeared in a piano recital on Friday evening, at her residence studio, 316 South Main street. The home had been literally transformed into a garden by the many baskets of flowers sent by relatives and friends of the pupils.

The color scheme of pastel tints was further carried out by dainty rose-colored programs. Light refreshments were served, and a pleasant hour of conversation followed the evening's entertainment.

Miss Ross expressed her appreciation for the co-operation of both parents and pupils during the past year's work, for she felt that the parents had a prominent part in the progress of the children.

Those taking part were Preston Hawk, Peter Plumb, Philip Smith, Evelyn Jeffers, Medora Smith, Paul Hendrickson, Irene Ross, Ramona Gilbert and Maxine Jeffers.

Miss Tompkins
Presenting a group of pupils varying from beginners to accomplished young people of advanced musical studies and talents, Miss Leonora Tompkins pleased a large crowd of music lovers and friends at Ebell auditorium, Thursday night.

Among the young pupils who were making their bow to the public and who did excellent work, were Faria Nell Clayton, playing "Lark's Song" by Tchaikovsky; Greta Miller in two numbers, "Turkish March" by Beethoven and "C Sharp Minor waltz" by Chopin; and Thelma Obar rendering "Rustles of Spring" by Sinding.

However it would be difficult to select any outstanding talent as all reflected so admirably, the teaching ability of Miss Tompkins. Of the advanced pupils, the work of Miss Florence Hutchins was remarkable. Her numbers were "Impromptu in A flat" by Schubert; "Caprice Viennois," Kreisler and "Polonaise in A" by Chopin.

Two guest artists, W. G. Axworthy, cellist and Madame Leonette Redon, mezzo-soprano, received enthusiastic applause and added to the pleasure and interest of the program. Mr. Axworthy's number was "Popper's Windmilling (Dedication)" and Madame Redon gave a group of three delightful and extremely varied songs, "Seguedillo" from Bizet's "Carmen," Massenet's "Elegie" and "Girodet," an old Italian melody. Especially lovely was the "Elegie" with its "cello obbligato" played by Mr. Axworthy.

Many Lovely Flowers Adorn Home for Bridge Party

NE of the week's happy affairs was the bridge party enjoyed yesterday by members of Santa Ana chapter O. E. S. when they were entertained by their worthy matron, Mrs. Elizabeth Jennigman, whose spacious rooms were converted into a flower garden by massed Shirley poppies, gladioli, dahlias, snapdragons and other lovely flowers of summer, grown by Miss Ada McFadden and sent by her to deck the home of the hostess.

Five tables were arranged amidst the flowers and in the glow of softly shaded lamps. The series of bridge games resulted in victory for Mrs. Florence Wright whose trophy was an ornamental jar of bath salts which would serve as a flower container when the contents were used.

Mrs. Ada Walters, scoring second, received a pretty linen towel, while to Mrs. Henrietta Roberts was presented consolation in the form of a gaily embroidered tea-towel.

With bridge games concluded, Mrs. Jennigman substituted dainty linens for the utilitarian card-table covers and served a refreshing salad with salt wafers and coffee followed by angel food cake and ice cream. She was assisted in serving by Mrs. Emma Chandler.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Santa Ana Community Players will launch their summer program of popular weekly entertainments tonight at The Barn where Miss Ethel Phillips will present a program of dialect readings. The program will begin at 8 o'clock and the nominal admission fee will include light refreshments.

Business and Professional Women's clubmembers will enjoy a program of readings Monday at their noon luncheon at St. Ann's Inn where Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips (Ray Bond Phillips) will be introduced. Mrs. Phillips has appeared on other B. and P. programs, always with marked success. The June committee introducing her is composed of Miss Virginia Craig, Mrs. Italy Lee, Mrs. Marie Fowler, Miss Elizabeth Phillips and Miss Martha Briggs.

Promotion services for those junior high school pupils who will be advanced to high school, will be featured at the First Baptist church tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. All parents of the advancing pupils are expected to be present. In connection with the coming vacation, Mrs. Iva M. Webber today asked that anyone needing assistance of young girls of junior high school, for light housework, caring for children or kindred tasks, communicate with her at Julia Lathrop school, 2367 M or with the secretary, Miss Esther Boone at 92, Frances Willard school. There are many young girls desiring such employment during vacation.

St. Ann's Altar society will give a lawn party Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles Borchard, on Williams street, to which everyone is invited.

Ebell's First Travel Section, which was to have met Monday at the Country club with members to be guests of Mrs. C. S. Kendall and Mrs. Stephen Ross, will not meet until Friday, June 11, according to announcement of the postponement made today.

County Park Picnics Highly Popular

Surprise For Pastor
When members of Richland Avenue M. E. church motored to Orange county park Wednesday night for a steak bake and merry evening, they took the opportunity to celebrate the birthday of their pastor, the Rev. H. G. Burgess, in happy fashion.

Seventy-five friends joined in the affair and partook of an enjoyable supper with all manner of good things served with the luscious steaks. It was at the supper table that the Rev. Mr. Burgess was taken completely by surprise when he was presented with many beautiful flowers, a towering birthday cake and a fountain pen, by his admiring parishioners.

Presentation of the pen was made by Miss Elizabeth Wyant in a pleasant talk of felicitations. The towering birthday cake was cut by its recipient and served with the dessert course of the supper.

Realtors' Auxiliary

Merriment reigned at the county park on Thursday evening when the Realtors' auxiliary members entertained their realtor husbands at a picnic dinner served at 6 o'clock and followed by lively out-door games.

A surprise feature of the dinner and one that met with hearty approval of everyone present, was the serving of hot biscuits and chicken gravy by the auxiliary president, Mrs. Frank Harris. The delicacy was accompanied by countless other delicious dishes prepared by the excellent cooks of the organization.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was the spirited discussion of the harbor bonds in which all took an interested part. About fifty were present to enjoy the evening.

Small Lad Enjoys Birthday Party

Young David Beall was made a very happy lad on Thursday, when his eleventh birthday was celebrated at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Beall, 601 East Third street, with a group of his playmates at Roosevelt school as guests.

Guessing games offered all manner of fun, and story-telling was an interesting feature. Mrs. Beall used quantities of pink carnations to adorn her home in honor of the youngsters, and in honor of the rectory their merry games by June Goodwin, Tressa Brown and Elizabeth Beall.

Fruit salad with wafers followed by ice cream and birthday cake formed the appetizing refreshments and each youngster received gay favors of a small automobile and snap motives with concealed fortunes.

Master David received many pretty gifts from his playmates who were all members of his sixth grade at Roosevelt school and included Jack Preston, Jack Montgomery, Bruce Harnols, Glenn Bishop, George Sliger, Frank Masterson, J. E. Enklyn, Munselle, Allen Winslow, Harold Gaeb, Benton Van Dien, Bobby Brown and Richard White together with the birthday lad's own brothers, Solon and Mac Beall.

Surprise Gifts Add To Attractions of Bridge Dinner

SURPRISE followed surprise last night at a used furniture party given in Ketter's gold room by Mrs. Edith Ritter in compliment to her sister teachers at Artesia school.

Mrs. Ritter had bidden her guests to dinner and tables arranged in the gold room, were gay with sweet peas, scabiosa and other summer blossoms in delicate tints. A four-course menu was served after which the tables were arranged for bridge which filled the evening hours.

It was at the close of the series of games that the first surprise came, for it was learned that prizes were bestowed regardless of scores, whether high or low. In fact each guest found herself a prize winner, and loud were the exclamations of delight over the beautifully embroidered luncheon sets which the hostess had provided for each member of her staff.

But that was not the only surprise, for Mrs. Ritter discovered that she, too, was a prize-winner when she was presented with a beautiful nightgown, eloquent of the friendly admiration in which she is held by her staff.

Asked to share in the pleasures of the evening with their hostesses and school principal, were Mrs. Jessie Boyd, Miss Berenice Hayward, Mrs. Emma Dietrich, Mrs. Helen Abbey, Mrs. Vivian Huffman, Mrs. Stella Franzen, Mrs. Katherine Duke and Mrs. Inez McBay.

Parent-Teachers

Success attended the plans of the high school P.-T. A. for an old-fashioned party as the final meeting of the school year and the first festivity in the new Andrews gymnasium of the high school group. Members and guests assembled in the new building Thursday night and following a brief meeting of the executive board, shared in an evening of old-time amusements.

Dancing to "fiddle" and piano music (with Mr. Huson, as the old-time fiddler) was an enjoyable feature and Lucian Sweet called the dances in master fashion. Spelling down was the source of much entertainment, with J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, giving the words to the teams captained by D. K. Hammond and Neal Beisel. Mr. Hammond's team was successful.

Much interest was expressed in the big Orange book of P.-T. A. publicity which was sent to the national convention in Georgia and which was displayed by Mrs. Robertson. Also the banners and the first prize in the recent poster convention and won by the local high school attracted attention.

The merry evening reached its climax at the refreshment hour when the contents of the supper boxes were shared, with the P.-T. A. furnishing hot coffee.

"Clothes of Right Kind Big Asset to Man in Business; Shabbiness Denotes Failure"

Mr. B. C. Forbes, noted writer on matters of finance and business, wrote the above caption over an article of his which appeared recently in the Los Angeles Examiner. It is a statement of such truth and force that we are using it and several paragraphs from the article for today's store message. Get Mr. Forbes' slant on the clothes question from these excerpts:

"Without question, every man who has his way to make in the world should wear the right kind of clothes and cultivate an attractive appearance.

"Clothes are important.

"Many employers will not engage any man who does not dress well and keep himself thoroughly groomed. The late John H. Patterson would fire an executive or salesman who neglected his appearance. 'Slovenly dress reflects a slovenly mind,' he declared.

"You can buy—and should buy—the best clothes possible.

"The right kind of clothes help. Make a start with them."

All of which would indicate that Mr. Forbes believes in our slogan, "Dress Well and Succeed."

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA—Nathan Hale

—BY REDNER

The war trumpet had not yet sounded when Hale formed his school boys into a company and started drilling them during intermissions. No attempt was made to conceal this warlike spirit and, in fact, it began to spread through the colonies. The old and young alike looked upon it with pride. Late on the afternoon of April 21, 1775, a messenger traveled from Boston to New York with war news.

He stopped at New London long enough to tell of the wonderful ride of Paul Revere, and of the fights at Lexington and Concord. That night a patriotic meeting was held in the court house.

Hale made one of the first public demands for independence. He called upon the citizens to "organize and drill and never lay down our arms until we have obtained our independence."

There was much excitement and a company was immediately formed with the name of Nathan Hale second on the roll. After writing to the proprietors of the grammar school, apologizing for having to quit his position, and bidding his scholars goodbye, Hale, with his company, marched away to Cambridge. He returned to New London in May, with the rank of lieutenant.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Summer

First Lady and Lace

A body of foreign women graduates of an Americanization class journey to the White House, says the news, bearing a spread of handmade lace to the First Lady. The lace may be very beautiful, again it may be one of those atrocious state flowers, tatting, crochet, Rose of Sharon patchwork or the Rising Sun pattern.

Beautiful or atrocious, it reminds us of the multitude of gifts which the two beset occupants of the White House must be called upon to receive. Cans of maple syrup from this state and that, beds in which presidents breathed their last, first seasonal blooms from state flowers, pie raised by Better Pie Clubs, pictures of Better Baby prize winners.

We hear little of the White House attic, but it must be a most entertaining nook!

Being a Beauty

"What colors become me most?" is a question received by Cynthia Grey more frequently, perhaps, than any other. One general answer might be, according to costume authorities, "study your hair and eyes, match and contrast. The best rule is to bring out color of eyes more than any other feature." If you have bright brown or black eyes, dark hair, and high coloring, wear warm flaming colors, yellow, orange, rose, henna. If your eyes are blue grey wear cool shades of jade and dull blues and greys.

The Calling Card

Time was when calls and calling cards had a dignity and seriousness of position not accorded them in this hurry-up world when invitations to the most formal affairs are apt to be telephoned, and social letters written by typewriter. Simpler rules prevail about the calling card than in the old days when etiquette decreed a certain number of cards for various occasions, with corners turned variously to denote different things. One card suffices for any occasion now, and corners are NEVER turned down.

Lace Shower

Lace lends itself to bridal showers. Write invitations on round lace paper doilies. Decorate with maiden hair fern on lace corsage plates. Have table favors of small corsages on lace holders, decorate with Queen Anne's lace and have shower gifts in lace or wrapped in lace doilies.

Wives "Easy to Live With"

Qualities in a wife which make her "easy to live with," as told by husbands to Montayne Perry, author, include "knowing when and when not to ask a man to do little chores around the house," "how to stretch the money," "taking time off to play," "a sense of proportion," and not making a life tragedy out of a steak spoiled because a man doesn't get home on time to dinner."

Helen Willis' Tennis Frock

It is not too much to assume that a girl who plays tennis for championships as does Helen Willis, would also be a girl who knows what a tennis player should wear for comfort and style. Helen Willis' ideal tennis dress is a sleeveless, low V-necked jumper overhanging of white broadcloth or crepe, worn with a color-striped white skirt, pleated, very short, and very full.

DECORATIVE COATS

For sport wear there are some very attractive long coats of jersey unbordered in self tones.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NO. 6—THE TICKET THAT TURNED TO A TRACK

"Silly! Of course I'm not," said a voice suddenly.

The Twins stood on the corner in Shut-Eye Town for quite a while, watching all the queer people go silently by.

"No wonder the Fairy Queen said that Inco probably came here," said Nick to Nancy. "An elephant with pink roses all over him isn't half as queer as eggs that bend, and daisies that turn into lobsters and snap their fingers at you."

"I should say not," said Nancy. "I wonder where the Forty Winks went!"

That reminded Nick of the pink tickets. "We'd better be using these," he remarked. "They won't be any good tomorrow."

With that he reached into his pocket for his ticket. But behold, no matter how much of it he pulled out, always some stayed in. It was like taking hold of the end of a spool of thread.

He kept pulling and pulling and pulling until he had quite ten yards and a half of pink ticket in his hands, with dear knows how much more to come.

Nancy reached into her pocket for her ticket, too, but Nick stopped her. "You'd better not," he said. "I don't know what to do with all I have now. It must be made of Grade A Number One rubber like the streets."

"Silly! Of course I'm not," said a voice suddenly, and to the Twins' amazement the ticket grew a head that curled itself around and looked at them, with great pink eyes. "If you would just read what it says on me you could see that I am more doing my duty. Look at the sixth line below the dashes!"

The printing on the ticket seemed to grow big all at once like printing on a page when you hold a magnifying glass over it. The sixth line said, "This ticket will take the owner to any place in Drowsy Land."

"Well, what of it," said Nick. "What has that got to do with you stretching out so long I can't hold you in two two hands?"

"Lots," said the ticket. "Let me go, and then see what happens. I can't take you any place, can I, if you're going to hold onto me so tight. Where should you like to go?"

"Just any place at all," said Nick thoughtlessly, never dreaming what his words meant.

"That's three stations off," said the pink ticket. "Lay me down on the ground and see what happens."

So Nick let go the ticket, and instantly it spread itself along the ground in a straight line and turned into a railroad track. And Nancy and Nick found themselves in a neat little car, rolling smoothly along on two long black lines that had turned into tracks.

"I see now why they say that tickets take you places," said Nancy. "Isn't this fine!"

Soon Shut-Eye Town was far behind with all its queer people. And the Twins forgot to wonder about the foolish things they had seen. They kept looking to the right and left this way and that for some sign of Inco and Flops. They

Menus for the Family

Breakfast—Stewed dried apricots, cereal, thin cream, breakfast spinach and bacon, rye, muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Casserole of meat and macaroni, stewed tomatoes, bran bread, drop cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Creole bouillabaisse, head lettuce with French dressing, pineapple sherbet, sponge cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

A "bouillabaisse" is a delicious fish dish that is neither a soup nor a ragout but which combines the excellent qualities of both. It makes a delightful main course for a hot weather dinner or a substantial luncheon dish any time of the year.

The casserole of meat and macaroni suggested in the luncheon menu uses up any chicken which may have been "left-over" from the preceding dinner.

Casserole of Meat and Macaroni

One cup macaroni broken into inch pieces, 4 eggs, 1 cup cream, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 1-2 cups cold diced chicken, 4 tablespoons finely chopped ham, 4 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs.

Cook macaroni in 2 quarts boiling water to which 2 teaspoons salt have been added, for 20 minutes or until tender. Drain and blanch. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add cream and whites of two eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Fold in prepared macaroni and season with salt and pepper. Add chicken, ham and cheese and turn into a well buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once.

passed an orchard where dreams were growing and a snore factory, and a yawning cave. And they also passed a sandy hill marked, "Private! Keep off! Sandman."

"I suppose," said Nancy, "that is sleepy sand."

"It is," said the ticket. "But here we are. This is your station. It is called Any Place At All! Hop out!"

With that it curled itself up and jumped into Nick's pocket.

THE PLEASANT TASK

He would not do the thing called work
Unless the task were pleasant,
His duty must not bind and irk,
Joy must be ever-present:
And so he searched the city through
To find the job he'd like to do.

Now there's a chasm which divides
Man's work from his playing
And one can't occupy both sides,
Which goes without my saying:
There is no job on earth today
Which pleases one so well as play.

The thing we really like to do
Is seldom honest toiling,
It's seeing likable duties through
Which keeps the kettle boiling;
And if it's work, beyond a doubt,
Somewhere it calls for courage stout.

And so from post to post he went,
To find a job which suited,
But everywhere in discontent
Away from tasks he scouted;
He wanted work which seems like play,
And that does not exist today.

There are various ways of taking off flesh without dieting which can be safely recommended to the woman who is not too much overweight. One way which, incidentally is very good for the complexion, is to take no breakfast but a large cup of coffee, black or with hot milk in it, and one piece of lightly buttered toast. If you begin to feel faint during the morning drink water, and whenever you feel hungry up to lunch time drink more water. This may sound dull, but as a matter of fact the water will stop the hunger pains and will flush out the whole system, saving your digestion, and your complexion will be very much improved.

There are various brands of thinning bath salts for which a great deal is claimed. These are expensive, but I know women who have tried them and like them. The salts are put in a very hot bath and the directions tell you the number of minutes to lie immersed in the water. If you are going to try anything of the sort ask your doctor about it first, as some of these bath salts are hard on the heart.

As a matter of fact any very hot bath will reduce your weight from one to three pounds, as you can tell by putting scales in your bathroom and weighing yourself carefully before and after the bath. If you will scrub yourself very vigorously all over with soap and a stiff, bristled bath brush and rub down hard with a bath towel afterwards you will help in the reduction.

Having lost weight you must be careful not to eat it on again during the day, as in the normal course of things you will do. The best way to reduce is by dieting, but that has become a separate science, and I will talk about it another time. As for other methods you can take five pounds off in a Turkish bath, you can also cure a tendency to rheumatism because you sweat poisons and surplus flesh out of your system.

Polly O. F.—Probably your skin feels drawn after bathing because you do not rinse it enough to get all the soap out of the pores. The best grade of castile soap is made from olive oil, and you will not be given a poor quality if you get it at a reliable place.

H. B. C.—Your white hair may have turned yellow from using the wrong kind of soap when washing it. Try diluted alcohol or bay rum for cleaning the scalp and wipe off your hair with a rag dipped in either solution. Use only a very fine soap when you begin to shampoo again. A little bluing in the last rinse helps to keep such hair from getting yellow.

Miss Fannie G.—There is no reason why your friend should fear a course growth of hair because she is shedding the fine invisible fuzz on her skin. She is probably also throwing off a great deal of dead particles of skin in the process of building up her health again.

Send a stamped addressed envelope and questions of fact having to do with Nature will be answered by the consulting staff of Nature Magazine of Washington through arrangements made by this paper.

A Thought
His seed shall be mighty upon earth; the generation of the upright shall be blessed.—Psalm 112:2.

VERY PRACTICAL
The kasha coat in natural color lined with blue polka dot foulard and a dress of the same silk, is as practical and smart an outfit as one may own.

Surer control, smoother operation for every FORD driver

by asking for Veedol Forzol by name

COMPARATIVELY few Ford owners know the secret of being able to drive their cars with velvety smoothness of control. Few ever fully attain the remarkable operating economies which the Ford car is purposely designed to give—largely because they fail to use the right kind of oil—an oil which can safely lubricate both the transmission and the motor.

In Veedol Forzol, Tide Water's technologists have created a perfect lubricant for both the Ford motor and the Ford transmission bands. Veedol Forzol is not just a motor oil—it is a different kind of oil, refined from different lubricating stocks, made in a different way. It will give you 8 Definite Economies in operation.

At the great Tide Water plant at Bayonne, N. J., Veedol Forzol is refined from the pick of Eastern crude oils. It is shipped by boat to the Pacific Coast.

Thousands of dealers up and down the Pacific Coast now sell Veedol Forzol. Stop today where you see a Veedol Forzol sign. There you'll get prompt, courteous service. ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATERS

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

The management of the Yost Broadway theater definitely announces that Samuel Goldwyn's romantic epic "Stella Dallas," adapted from the famous novel by Mrs. Olive Higgins Prouty, will begin a four-day engagement tomorrow.

The management also recommends "Stella Dallas" as one film that will live in the memory after it is seen. It is great in story, cast and superb in its heart-wringing appeal.

"Stella Dallas" has had an amazing vogue as a popular story, then as a novel, and later as a stage play in which Mrs. Leslie Carter starred. The theme is already known to millions for its distinction and power.

The screen version of this mighty book was directed by Henry King whose record of achievement is marked by his production of "The White Sister," "23 1/2 Hours Leave," and the gold medal photoplay "Tol-able David."

Striking the keynote of romance, "Stella Dallas" on the screen, bares the love life of the central character played by Belle Bennett. It pictures a girl in love with love. It unfolds her amorous nature, her marriage, her peccadilloes, and vividly visualizes the heights to which Stella rose and the depths to which she fell.

Actors and actresses of recognized ability portray the roles. Ronald Colman plays Stephen Dallas, Belle Bennett plays Stella Dallas, Alice Joyce plays Helen Morrison, Jean Hersholt plays Ed Munn, Lois Moran plays Laurel, and Douglas Fairbanks plays Richard Groveson.

WEST COAST-WALKER

"Tony," Tom Mix's wonder horse,

co-stars with Mix in "Tony Runs Wild," latest Fox western production, now at the West Coast-Walker theater. Although he has a difficult part, calling for a lot of horse sense and intelligence, "Tony" does it so well that he almost takes the honors away from his master.

The picture was made along the Apache trail in the rugged, picturesque mountains near the Pueblos of the Cliff Dwellers, a race which vanished long before history began. Now this district is becoming highly developed mining and cattle territory but bands of wild horses still run at large and "Tony" was cast as the leader of one of these bands.

"Tony" played his part well, but throughout the picture Mix rode "Pronto," another of the horses from his famous stable, and "Tony" didn't particularly like this as it seemed to him that he should be carrying Mix through the daredevil stunts in which theater patrons are accustomed to see them. He protested in a mild way—mild for the leader of a band of wild horses—but Tom assured him that it was all according to script and "Tony" gives the screen a masterpiece of horse acting.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
A picture of tense drama, gripping power and emotional depth was disclosed last night when "The Blind Goddess" made its local bow at the Yost Broadway theater. This is a celluloid version of Arthur Train's famous novel. To the credit of Hope Loring and Louis D. Lighton, the adapters, and Victor Fleming, the director, it may be said that the film is a graphic, vital portrayal of Train's widely read and much discussed story.

Not all the honors, however, belong to the author and director. The cast as a whole and the featured players individually deserve a goodly share of applause for their excellent work. As a matter of fact, the capital performances of Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Esther Ralston and Louise Dresser contribute in no small measure to the moving appeal and relentless realism of the production.

WEST COAST-WALKER
At last the world's foremost comedian, Charlie Chaplin, has launched his greatest comedy, "The Gold Rush," on the sea of popular fancy. Announcement is made by Manager C. E. Walker of the West Coast-Walker theater, that he has paid the record price for any photoplay ever shown in Santa Ana and that the celebrated star's new release comes here tomorrow.

For 16 months, Charlie Chaplin worked on this production. During that time he was virtually a hermit—recluse to all, save his studio associates. Only the vaguest announcements of progress on "The Gold Rush" came from his studio. Chaplin senses, and expresses more than any other entertainer, the close affinity between the ludicrous and the pathetic; his comedy springs from within—more as a matter of mood than of circumstance. Usually he needs very little story structure to his comedy, but in "The Gold Rush," he has created a rugged story in which laughter surges from the spectacle of a valiant weakling; facing perils which strewed the paths of the early gold seekers with skeletons. In the role of a hardluck sardough, dressed in the baggy pants, the floppy shoes, the old derby and funny cane of early association, Charlie twists the sufferings of the Alaskan pioneers into a strange commingling of humor and tragedy. He thaws fun from a frosty, forbidding background. The treatment is wholly unlike anything hitherto done, and strikes a new note in photo dramatics.

Charlie Chaplin's "The Gold Rush" contains comedy, drama, satire melodrama, farce. Not to forget a little slapstick—and everything else in the way of entertainment are rolled into one big ten reeled film.

This great picture will be shown in Santa Ana, at the West Coast-Walker theater for the first time tomorrow and Manager Walker has made special arrangements for the handling of the crowds.

YOST THEATER
Three popular stars of the screen will be seen in Robert T. Kane's "Bluebeard's Seven Wives," which comes tomorrow to the Yost theater. This trio consists of Blanche Sweet, Lois Wilson and Ben Lyon. The picture is said to be an unusually diverting comedy, tracing the highly colored career of a bank clerk, John Hart, who, by dint of good acting and clever publicity, becomes Don Juan Hartz on the silver screen.

The picture derives its title from the idea evolved by Don Juan's press agent, who in a sensational endeavor to make his charge famous, determines to marry him as many times as was the original Bluebeard. And all this is quite distasteful to Don Juan because he is very much in love with a certain plain little girl—a waitress!

How he manages to escape his seven "wives" and how finally he discards his character of Don Juan Hartz and goes back to just plain John Hart forms the humorous chain of events that constitute the picture.

Ben Lyon is seen in the role of the modern Bluebeard. Blanche Sweet is his leading lady in his picture of "Romeo and Juliet," while Lois Wilson is the girl he ultimately marries.

"The Splendid Road," a picture featuring Anna Q. Nilsson, Lionel Barrymore and Robert Frazer, closes at the Yost theater tonight.

The Crown Prince of Sweden, who soon will visit American, is a distinguished archaeologist, musician and athlete, and a religious leader in his country.

J. H. Thomas, Labor's chief spokesman in the great British strike, is a Welshman by birth and began work as an errand boy when nine years old.

The House of Savoy, to which the King of Italy belongs, is the oldest reigning family in Europe.

"THRIFTY" GASOLINE ESTABLISHES RECORD

Demonstrating the thriftiness of Macmillan Gasoline, Elta Thompson, fair daughter of Scotland, drove a stock Star touring car from the City Hall in Long Beach to the Auto Salon of the Valencia Orange Show at Anaheim, using but three quarts of Macmillan Gasoline.

Exactly one gallon of gasoline was placed in a glass container which was substituted for the fuel tank. This container was connected directly with the vacuum of the car and was inspected by "Doc" Weatherby, Long Beach newspaper man and official observer. Fully one quart of gasoline was in the jar when the car arrived at the Orange Show—that's the announcement made by Geo. W. Reid, Mgr., and Dr. H. A. Johnston, President, of the Valencia Orange Show, after inspecting the tank at the finish. The speedometer registered 26 miles.

This is the 6th official test made on Macmillan Gasoline within two months. Every test has established its superiority. Nearly unbelievable mileage records have been established, and today hundreds of motorists are enjoying the thriftiness of this gasoline. They are getting from one to three and four miles more per gallon than they have been accustomed to.

YOU TOO MAY ENJOY THE REDUCTION OF YOUR COST PER MILE IN THE OPERATION OF AN AUTOMOBILE BY USING THIS THRIFTY MOTOR FUEL.

Spray Now for Red Scale

Give your trees a thoro wetting with 2% VOLCK and you'll quickly notice a big improvement in your trees. VOLCK is a contact spray of a highly improved type. It covers the sprayed surface with a uniform oily film which penetrates the waxy covering and reaches the adult beneath with deadly effectiveness, and without injury to fruit or foliage.

VOLCK KILLS RED SCALE

The surprising results of VOLCK are due to this viscous oily film, which remains effective for an indefinite period. The young on emergence are brought into contact with the oil, and are either killed by it or prevented from settling down and soon die. This accounts for the increased kill as time goes on. VOLCK also kills Red Spider in all stages of development—the same application controlling both Spider and Scale.

VOLCK makes trees clean and keeps them clean. One application a year is a complete pest control program for most groves.

MRS. SPANGLER AGAIN ELECTED P.-T. A. CHIEF

Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, well known local clubwoman and social welfare worker, was re-elected president of the Santa Ana city federation of California Congress of Parents and Teachers, at the annual meeting, held last night in the parish hall of the Episcopal church, Seventh and Bush streets.

Other officers elected were: First vice president, Mrs. W. W. Hoy; second vice president, Mrs. E. E. Boettinger; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. E. Stewart; recording secretary, Mrs. Paul Johnston; financial secretary, Mrs. Flake Smith; treasurer, Mrs. B. B. Wallbridge; auditor, E. B. Sprague; historian, Mrs. Nell Beisel; parliamentarian, Mrs. J. H. Stewart.

Nomination Is Applauded. Testimony to the esteem and affection in which Mrs. Spangler is held by the membership of the federation, was the prolonged applause that greeted her nomination for reelection, presented by the nominating committee, of which Mrs. Mary B. Robertson was chairman.

Sharing honors with Mrs. Spangler was Mrs. Earl Morris, prominent local P.-T. A. worker, recently elected fifth vice president of the state organization, who was given an ovation as she mounted the platform.

Indorsement of the humanitarian work, carried on in Orange county by the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County, and the Orange County Tuberculosis society is contained in resolutions adopted by the federation. The resolutions, presented by a committee made up of Mrs. W. W. Hoy, Mrs. J. C. Sexton and Mrs. Nell Beisel, further ask that the county supervisors give serious consideration to requests submitted by these organizations for financial aid to carry on their work among underprivileged or handicapped children.

Thanks Press for Aid. Among the resolutions adopted was one thanking the Santa Ana Register and other papers for the splendid co-operation given the city federation, the local associations, and the P.-T. A. movement in general. Appreciation also was expressed for co-operation and assistance by the Santa Ana board of education, the Santa Ana city council, and the merchants of the city.

The program included a brief talk by Attorney J. C. Burke, former U. S. attorney for the Southern California district, and remarks by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools.

Musical for the occasion was furnished by the Spurgeon school orchestra, under leadership of Prof. S. J. Mustol.

OPPOSES HARBOR BONDS ON TAXATION GROUNDS

TUSTIN, Calif., June 4, 1926. Editor Register: There has been so much said in favor of the proposed harbor bonds that one would think there was no opposing side to it.

As far as I'm concerned, (burdened as we are with tax so high many are complaining), I can see nothing but the opposite side.

Those in favor of it seem to see nothing but prosperity, and it may possibly be so, but no one can see far enough ahead to "KNOW" what the results will be. It is a gamble.

If these people who are boosting heartily were asked to put their own money into it instead of the people's, what would their answer be? It makes a difference whose foot the boot is on.

Claim is made that if carried taxes would be little higher, and that is true, but when taxes are now so high many are complaining, and with the bonds successfully voted on last week the increased tax will amount to quite an increase.

"Many a mickle makes a muckle." It's with the laboring class—I don't mean business men, but those who have their homes only partly paid for and depend on their daily wages to get ahead—it is on these that the increased taxes will bring a heavier burden than they can bear.

There is considerable advice given by certain ones to practice what they preach. True economy to my mind would be to pay off some of these bonds with which we are now over-loaded, before going more deeply in debt, and by so doing either lower the taxes, or at least keep them from going higher.

It is penny wise and pound foolish to vote more bonds with such a heavy debt owing. I see certain parties were intending to vote "yes" only because they felt the time was ripe but to get them (the bonds) out of the way and stop the constant cry of "Vote for Harbor Bonds." I feel many will vote yes just to get them off their mind.

This reminds me of a baby crying for a new toy and the mother instead of spanking him, as she should, gives him that toy and so spoils the child.

Why can't people let well enough alone? There's a chance that the harbor bonds will be all right, but a greater chance they will be all wrong.

This constant voting for bonds and not being satisfied with what we have reminds me of a rhyme I saw a few years ago.

It reads:
"As a rule
Man's a fool,
When it's hot
He wants it cool,
When it's cool
He wants it hot,
Always wanting
What is not."

The conditions are not only that way here but all over the world. No satisfied feeling anywhere. Why the need of special election? Why not economize and vote for any and all bonds at the general election in November.

I hope the bonds if carried will do all that is prophesied for them, but I for one will vote "No" when

HUNTINGTON BEACH MEN ARE STRONG FOR HARBOR BONDS, INQUIRY REVEALS

Opinion of prominent men in Huntington Beach is practically unanimous in favor of the $1,200,000 harbor bond issue, according to a canvass of many voters, conducted by the editors of the Huntington Beach News, as revealed in the last issue of the beach newspaper. Following are some of the comments made concerning the harbor development program and bond election.

E. A. Suter.—The benefits to be derived from the development of a nearby harbor will be permanent and not temporary. I am heartily in favor of the bonds.

L. W. Blodgett.—I cannot find strong enough words with which to express my approval of the bonds. I believe they will give immediate returns to Huntington Beach in increased population and increased popularity of the Orange county coastline. There can be no possible reason why anyone should not indorse them.

W. B. Mandeville.—I am very heartily in favor of the Orange County Harbor bonds. It is my firm conviction that the harbor frontage will be worth twice as much as it will cost in development. I furthermore believe that the improvements would be a fine investment for the county, even if they provide a harbor only for pleasure boats. No one need worry about the commercial boats. In my opinion, the number of people who would be attracted to the harbor as a resort would be sufficient to make the bonds pay for themselves.

Benefit Huntington Beach. C. N. Whittam—I believe there can be no doubt as to the favorable effect of the bonds on Huntington Beach, both in increased population and in lower freight rates.

Mrs. R. E. Downs.—I am interested in the success of the harbor bonds because I believe a harbor will be of great benefit to all Orange county. Huntington Beach needs to have a full vote to offset any possible objection from any other part of the county.

G. O. Berry.—Industries are the big things in the development of a county. The passage of the harbor bonds will mean the bringing of many new industries to Orange county that would not otherwise come here. Industries mean people and payrolls. Some of these people are going to live in Huntington Beach, and some of our residents might also find employment at the harbor. I am strongly in favor of the bonds.

Judge C. W. Warner.—We might as well have a harbor in Orange county as in Los Angeles county. If it is a good thing for Los Angeles county, it is a good thing for Orange county. The taxes will not amount to anything when distributed throughout the county. If the people of Orange county show they are interested in their own welfare, then government help may be expected soon. We have already made considerable investment at the harbor, and it should be saved.

Booster for Harbor. L. E. Mitchell—The Legion post as a body has already gone on record as strongly favoring the harbor bonds. I am convinced that the cost will be negligible in comparison to the great benefits to be derived. I have been interested in boosting the bonds, not only in Huntington Beach, but I have also given talks favorable to the bonds in other parts of the county.

R. J. Prescott.—In less than five years, Long Beach and Los Angeles Harbors will be entirely inadequate to serve the Southland, and it is time that we start building now to take care of the business that is sure to come. The Orange County Harbor will save 20 to 30 miles' haul for the people of Riverside and San Bernardino counties, who now have to haul from San Pedro or Long Beach Harbors. Any time you cut down 20 miles on your hauling charges, you are going to save money. When Orange County Harbor is completed, these inland people are going to do business with Orange County Harbor, because it will save money for them. The potential area of Orange County Harbor is greater than San Pedro harbor, so there is no reason why there should not be very heavy commerce when the harbor is prepared for it.

the times comes.

Please publish if you think worth while.

In Two Classes STAR Wins Yosemite Economy Run

[This epoch-making achievement places Star cars in a class by themselves....]

THE tenth annual A. A. A. Los Angeles Yosemite Economy Run—the world's most famous economy test—proved a triumph for Star cars.

Again Star sets a winner's pace—two firsts and a second, and the highest gas mileage of any car entered—29.09 miles to the gallon.

Now it can no longer be a question of the most economical car to buy. Three of the first four places in gasoline mileage were awarded to Star cars. Read the figures at the right.

And that's not all! The highest average of all entries was made by the Star Four, with 29.09 miles to the gallon.

360 miles, over every condition of road—smooth, flat highway to tortuous dirt mountain roads with power-testing grades—Star cars proved their staunch stand-up qualities by finishing in perfect condition.

Officially checked and re-checked, as strictly stock models, under observation the entire way by two officials of the run, this latest Star victory establishes the Star car as the wonder low-cost car of all time. Built for tomorrow it sets a pace today for all cars.

HUDSON COACH

All Closed Car Comforts Masterful Performance—Low Cost

Note Well These Claims They Are Supported by 800,000 Owners

Lasting pride of ownership comes from masterful performance, ease of operation and maintenance, from reliability and economy.

These qualities cannot be revealed by any other test than actual performance over long periods of time and in the hands of every type of user.

Hudson holds first advantage because of its patented Super-Six—the world's most famous motor. More than 800,000 have been built by Hudson under its exclusive principle. For 11 years it has been outstanding because of distinctive smoothness, wide flexibility, power, speed, and reliability.

Hudson is easy to steer. Its power range is so great that gear shifting is lessened, and the riding action is so well arranged that long hours at the wheel are not tiring.

Economy is found in low operating and maintenance cost.

These are the qualities that make genuine satisfaction. Upon such a chassis is mounted the coach. It gives all closed car comforts. It is sturdy, beautiful in line, and complete in every practical detail. Its sale has exceeded that of any closed car priced above $1,000. That production has led to greater economy and much lower prices. It has permitted many improvements in chassis and body.

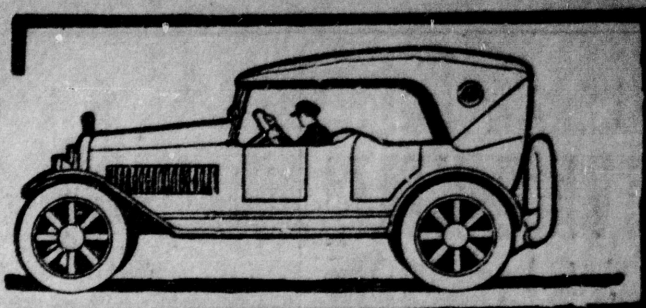

So today's Hudson Coach is not only the best ever built. It also is priced lower than ever before.

HUGE GRANT MADE TO CLUB INTERNATIONALE

Buick Master Six Carries Party to Lower California City for Festivities

A Buick two-door Master Six sedan, provided by the Reid Motor company, offered quick and satisfactory transportation for a group of Santa Ana men, who drove, last Saturday, to Ensenada, Lower California, to represent the junior division of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce in festivities there in informal dedication of Ensenada and beautiful Ensenada bay as a new port of commerce and international playground.

The big event was under the auspices of the junior chamber of commerce of Los Angeles, approximately 200 members of that organization going to the Mexican city Friday, on the steamer Ruth Alexander. The Los Angeles contingent was augmented on Saturday by the arrival of approximately 200 persons in a fleet of pleasure craft of the Los Angeles Harbor Yacht club.

The Santa Ana men going to the celebration were Mason Yould, president of the junior division and assistant managing editor of the Register; Earl Abbey, deputy county clerk; W. R. (Stormy) Gordon, with the Reid Motor company; R. R. McDonald, sales manager for George Dunton, and Horace Fine, automobile editor of the Register.

City Gaily Decorated
The Lower California city was gaily decorated in Mexican and American colors, and the city was lively with Americans and Mexicans, bent on getting full enjoyment of the occasion.

The visitors were feted and feasted Friday afternoon and evening. Barbecued venison and abalone were dished out to the throng. Dancing, Mexican musicales and trips about the bay district were provided as special entertainment features for the week end.

The occasion for the fiesta was the concession granted by the Mexican government to the Club Internationale, of Ensenada, composed of Los Angeles capitalists. The grant to the club includes land fronting for six miles on the bay, offering an ideal site for developments proposed by the club. Plans contemplate the expenditure of $1,500,000 in erection of a clubhouse, construction of a new pier and other improvements, scheduled to start on July 1. Machinery, building material and everything needed by the company in its building program will be admitted free of duty under the terms of the concession.

According to plans approved by the Mexican government and the directors of the club, the clubhouse will cover approximately five acres and will cost close to $1,000,000.

David Zarate, graduate of Santa Ana school, governor of Lower California for a brief period and three times mayor of Ensenada, had an important part in arranging details of the celebration. He is president of the chamber of commerce there.

Fred Wilkes, former resident of Santa Ana, was among the Los Angeles men present. He now is a resident of Los Angeles and is an active member of the Los Angeles Harbor Yacht club.

SPEEDING MOST SERIOUS CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

Is it necessary to prohibit speeding?

California's motor vehicle act provides for limits of 15 miles an hour in a business district in any city, as defined in the act, 20 miles an hour in a residence district and 35 miles an hour under all other conditions, excepting when traversing grade crossings of railways, highway intersections, going around corners and when passing schools. The general limits in these exceptions also is 15 miles an hour.

Despite the limits, the records show that speeding still is one of the most serious causes of automobile accidents. In the first four months of this year, speeding is given as the specific cause of 11 deaths in Los Angeles county, according to reports of the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, as obtained from testimony at coroner's inquests.

Speeding and reckless driving were responsible for 49,830 violations or nearly two-thirds of the total infractions of the vehicle law during 1925 in California, according to the report in the auto club files.

Ross Announces New Nash Sales

Fred Ross, manager for O. A. Haley, Inc., Nash dealer, today reported in closing the biggest contracts available on the Pacific coast, in securing so great a volume of business with stage lines, and in acquiring such desirable dealers all along the coast, is positive proof of the fact that the Pacific coast is the most economical place in the United States to manufacture tires, according to a statement recently made by Jess Goodman, Santa Ana Samson dealer.

According to Goodman, additional proof was furnished by the fact that it is claimed for Samson, and has been proved, that there are no higher quality tires made, and very few of equal quality, which is unusual when it is considered that the price of Samson tires is practically the same as the price of other well known tires.

"The reasons for the economy in tire manufacturing on the coast are perfectly logical, so that it is possible for a manufacturer located in this section of the country to make a better tire at a moderate cost," Goodman said.

Most of the population consists of shipwrecked sailors and wives they brought from St. Helena.

FOREST FIRE PRECAUTIONS URGED BY AUTOMOBILE CLUB

Motorists tempted to smoke while touring are urged to be sure that the match is out before throwing it away, in the precaution recently issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

It is pointed out that the great proportion of forest fires originate from carelessly tossed matches, cigars and cigarette smokers.

The motor, "Help Prevent Forest Fires," is being broadcast throughout the Southland this month, with the beginning of another great season of outing and touring. It is expected that considerably more than 2,000,000 people will make use of the national forests of the state this year for camping, hunting, fishing and other purposes, while more than 3,000,000 probably will drive through the forests over main motorway highways, according to calculations of the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

More than 90 per cent of the travel in national forests is by auto, the figures show, and these travelers are responsible for the greatest percentage of loss by forest fires.

chamber, during which a member of the Left doused his opponents with water until they raised umbrellas and advanced to meet him in hand-to-hand combat, the rules committee has threatened to remove the water bottles from the desks of members. If this were done there then would remain nothing but beer from the Diet restaurant with which the members could quench their thirst. And it would not be handy enough for use to douse members.

Speaker Bartel, however, is opposed to removing the water carafes. He considers water a necessary luxuriant for the throats of long-winded speakers. Also he fears that if members were to drink beer in the same quantity as water is consumed outbreaks of disorder would be more prevalent than now.

MANY CHANGES ARE IMPENDING IN LIGHT CAR

By GEORGE W. SUTTON JR., Contributor in Leading European and American Motor Publications

Back of all the present smoke concerning the future type of light cars in this country, there is certain to be a definite amount of real fire. Two European builders have just left us with satisfied looks on their faces. The question of smaller motors, greater speed from the small car, greater fuel economy and new dimensions in general, have been receiving far more than casual mention in the big motor car manufacturing centers.

The general impression is that an entirely new type of light, small car is not very far from the production stage and that it will be a quantity affair when it finally makes its appearance.

High Speed Motor
It is generally understood that such a car will have a smaller piston displacement than any we have been accustomed to in the past, that it will be a high speed motor and that it will show a power development per cubic inch of piston displacement which will be well in excess of any stock motor which we have at the present time.

These general assumptions make it entirely safe to assume that the power plant in the new type car, when it appears, will have such details of high quality construction as a drilled crank shaft for lubrication, full pressure feed oiling system, pump operated cooling system and other requisites of a high speed motor. These will be important advances in the light, small car field. It also will be a four-cylinder power plant which will be used.

The question of the type of body structure to be used on this car is one on which there has not been enough said. But certain elements of performance will have much to do with the body structure.

A much lower body structure will be necessary if the new trend in the light car field is to produce a vehicle which will travel 60 miles an hour as the more ardent prophets indicate. At this speed, a car weighing around 2000 pounds will have to carry this weight low to the ground to insure the proper amount of road stability.

At the present time we are accustomed to seeing the small cars with the roof of the sedan bodies well over six feet from the ground. A fast, small car probably would be compelled to lower this height several inches and it is likely that body structures of the future, on the small cars, will not be over five feet eight inches from the ground to the top of the roof.

Body Height Question
There is no particular reason why such a body height could not be made to offer all the head room to which we have been accustomed. Changes fully as radical as this have come in our larger cars, which now are much lower than they were a few years back. After all, body height is as much regulated by spring suspension and the method of installing the body on the frame as it is by the inside dimensions from the floor of the body to the roof.

Smaller tires than our present

DUNTON IS BACK IN OLD QUARTERS

George Dunton, Ford-Lincoln dealer, today had resumed operations in his old location, the Stout-Knox building, which was damaged by fire on February 26.

The structure has been completely repaired and every department of the big Dunton business is functioning 100 per cent in the reconstructed building.

Co-incident with re-location in the old home of the agency, Dunton announced today that tonight he would inaugurate a new working schedule, which he believes will be of real service to his patrons.

The new schedule will be the keeping open, each evening, of the sales and repair departments of the big establishment. The departments will be in operation until 9 p. m., except on Sunday evenings. Service in either department will be available on Sundays from 9 a. m. to 12 m.

GREAT DEMAND FOR NEW WILLYS-KNIGHT

One of the outstanding features of the spring buying demand is the pronounced trend toward the new Willys-Knight Six "Seventy" two door sedan, according to Ray Schanahals, Santa Ana agent.

"This new model has just been introduced and completes a full line of closed cars in the '70' series," Schanahals said. "It is the companion car to the Willys-Knight '70' sedan, which has enjoyed such popularity.

"The '70' two door sedan and the new '70' coupe, recently brought out, are built on the same chassis as the Willys-Knight Six '70' sedan and are powered with the Knight sleeve valve motor. This makes the new model one of the fastest, most responsive models on the market."

WIDER PARKING STALLS WILL BE WELCOMED BY S. A. WOMEN

Present Areas Too Narrow To Permit Free Opening Of Doors on Large Cars

BOULEVARD STOPS GIVEN APPROVAL

Will Be Instrumental in Reducing Accidents at Dangerous Intersections

BY HORACE FINE

Automobile Editor of Register
Re-marking and widening of stalls on the angle-parking sides of the restricted area and institution of boulevard stops at a large number of street intersections, as programmed by Street Commissioner Stanley Goode and City Engineer Nat Neff, will be given general approval.

The stops will be effective in reducing accidents at intersections that have become dangerous because of increased traffic, and the widening of the parking stalls will bring relief to men and women driving enclosed cars.

The present width of stalls is too narrow to permit the free opening of doors and exit of passengers from closed cars. Ever since the last marking of the stalls, women of the city have been loud in their protestations against continuation of the narrow stalls. And their complaints have been justified.

Insufficient Clearance
The present stalls are approximately nine and one-half feet wide and the clearance between cars is insufficient to permit a woman to leave her car without her clothes rubbing against the fender or running board of her own car or against the machine standing in the adjoining space.

Edges of closed car doors have been nicked by striking against a machine standing in the next stall, and there are few machine in the city which do not bear the marks of contacts resulting from narrow stalls.

Goode and Neff have been making investigations of traffic conditions at various points in the county and in a short time will recommend to the council amendment of the parking ordinance establishing streets in the city which should come under the boulevard stop regulation.

The ordinance now in effect takes care of only Main and Fourth streets. The amendment will add Broadway, Bush, Flower, Bristol, Grand, Seventeenth, Washington, East First, Fairview and McFadden.

Control for Many Years
Authority will be given the city engineer to institute stops on streets intersecting the designated thoroughfares whenever he deems the safety of the general public requires the regulation. Inclusion of the streets named will give the city control for many years to come and will eliminate the possible necessity, later, of amending the traffic ordinance to give effect to stops on the through streets.

It is not the intention of the engineer to make the stops effective on all of these streets at the present time. Only those intersections on the named streets that are dangerous at this time will be marked.

Stop signs already have been painted on some of the streets crossing Broadway, but legal enforcement cannot be made until the ordinance is amended.

COLLEGE FOLK GIVE CANTATA OF OLD JAPAN

With pleasing effect, the cantata, "A Tale of Old Japan," was presented by the students of the Santa Ana Junior college last night, before an audience of 300, in the Ethel clubhouse.

The gay fantasy of Japanese romance was blended with the tragic story of O Kimi San, the wistful maiden who awaited the return of a faithless lover.

From the beginning, an air of Japan was created by the appearance of Miss Eleanor Guyan, as announcer, dressed in an oriental smock. The poem, written by Alfred Noyes, was read by T. H. Glenn, college English teacher, as a prologue.

As the theme unraveled, the audience was interested in following the threads of the plot through the cantata while enjoying the music.

Miss Louise Mansfield, head of the music department, directed the presentation. The solo parts were interpreted by Miss Helen Joy Smith, soprano; Miss Kate Benton, contralto; Charles Haas, tenor, and J. Leslie Steffensen, baritone. The chorus of junior college students was swelled to 50 by the high school chorus. Miss Ruth Armstrong was accompanist.

After the cantata, the parents were entertained in the Peacock room by the Women's organization of the college. Punch and wafers were served. Miss Enid Twist, president of the Women's organization, made the arrangements for the reception.

TAXES GOING UP AS FRANC FALLS

PARIS, June 5.—French tourists' taxes go up as fast as the franc goes down. The Touring Club of France and kindred associations are now demanding that the so-called "sojourn tax," levied on visitors to watering places, climatic resorts, spas and famous tourist centers, be raised from a maximum of two to three francs per day to balance the lower purchasing power of the franc.

Hotelkeepers are responsible for the collection of this tax, which is added to the tourist's bill, and the revenue derived from it is spent in improving and rendering more accessible the different tourist centers. The tax, graded on a scale corresponding to the class of hotel patronized by the tourist, brought in 20,000,000 francs last year, against 8,000,000 in 1922.

LINGERIE ROBBER FOUND TO BE GOAT

CHICAGO, June 4.—The great mystery of what has become of numerous camisoles and other dainty lingerie, disappearing from a South State street store, is in a fair way of solution. The thief, it caught, will be booked under the name of Ovis Poll.

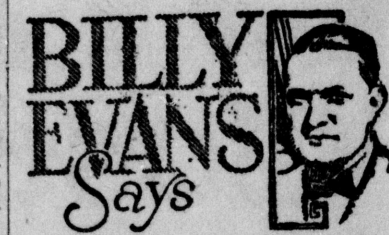

Ovis Poll looks like a sheep, a hard-boiled sheep, blats like a flivver and smells so bad that notes do not express it a goat.

For more than a month the police have been mystified by a thief with a peculiar taste for lingerie of the daintiest sort and preferably of pink color. Hundreds of pounds of these garments have disappeared, and it takes many camisoles, teddies, step-ins and that sort of stuff to make 100 pounds.

Today watchers came across the disreputable Ovis Poll gazing wistfully into a window just filled with lingerie. It lowered its head and started for the window, but a post intervened and before the dazed goat could recover, the police were upon him.

"It's as easy as handing out a parking slip," said the officer making the arrest. "This billy goat has a yen for dry goods. Lingerie is his ice cream. This one has been ramming windows right and left. Knock him in the head or lock him up. The mystery of the stolen lingerie is solved."

WADDELL'S FEAT

Eighteen years ago, Rube Waddell struck out 16 batters in an American league game. That is the best modern day record for whiffing the opposition.

It was sweet revenge for Waddell, for he made the record against the Athletics, after being released by that club to the St. Louis Browns. Back in 1884, Charley Sweeney of Providence, pitching against Boston, caused 19 batters to wend back to the bench via the strikeout route. Walter Johnson and "Dazzy" Vance have several times threatened the modern record of 16 but always something happened to spoil the big chance.

I recall one game I umpired for Johnson in which he got 10 men in the first five innings. He was going great and it seemed a certainty that Waddell's strikeout mark would be shattered.

Up to the last half of the fifth neither team had scored, Johnson was being pressed to the limit. In that inning his club gave him a four-run lead and he immediately eased up. He struck out only two more batters during the remainder of the game.

RECORD IN DANGER
Of the present day pitchers in the major leagues, I am inclined to think that "Lefty" Grove of the Athletics, has a better chance than any other pitcher to shatter Waddell's mark of long standing.

Twice this year, although the race is still in its infancy, Grove has struck out 11 of the opposition.

The first time was in a game with the New York Yankees, which he lost 2-0. Babe Ruth and company scoring all their runs in the last half of the eighth. So the 11 strikeouts were registered in only eight innings of play.

The second time the feat was performed, the Chicago White Sox was the team to suffer. In the first three innings Grove got six batters on strikes. I wondered if Mack's southpaw was in for a record performance.

During the remainder of the game I kept close track of his work. On an even dozen batters who finally either walked, hit safely or retired, Grove had two strikes. So that 12 other batters aside from the 11 who fanned were in imminent danger.

SIMILAR CASES
Grove cost Mack more than $100,000. He was secured from the Baltimore club of the International league. Mack appears ready to cash in on him.

In many ways the career of Grove is not unlike that of Rube Marquard. Back some 13 years he cost John McGraw of the New York Giants the sum of $11,000.

In those days paying $11,000 for a minor league star, occasioned more gossip than the amount Mack handed over for Grove.

Marquard simply couldn't win for the Giants and was commonly referred to as the "$11,000 lemon." His first year was far worse than the record made by Grove.

Marquard finally found himself and became one of the greatest southpaws in the history of the game. One of his biggest feats was winning 19 straight games in 1912, equalling a record made in 1888 by Tim Keefe and never bettered.

KEY TO PENNANT
Prior to the start of the 1925 race, Manager Jack Dunn, who groomed Grove at Baltimore, said he would win 20 games for Mack, possibly 25. Connie predicted a pennant if Grove lived up to Dunn's prophecy.

Grove was a disappointment last year after all the press-agenting that had preceded him. He won only 10 games and lost two more. However, he led the league in strikeouts, showing he had the stuff.

Incidentally, he gave the most bases on balls, proving he lacked control. This year Grove is working much slower, has cut down the speed of his motion, almost coming to a stop at the halfway mark and it pitching overhand entirely. Inability to control his sidarm delivery made most of his trouble last year.

"Let Grove win 20 games this year and we will make plenty of trouble. If he cops 25 we will just about win the pennant," says Mack.

GREAT PARADE AS BOOST FOR HARBOR. PLAN

Arrangements for a big pre-election harbor bond booster parade, to be staged next Wednesday, June 9, throughout the county, by different service clubs, were announced yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Santa Ana Knights of the Round Table at St. Ann's Inn.

George Ragan is chairman of the parade committee, which includes Charles E. Camm, Arthur F. Granas and Clarence E. Olson. This committee is co-operating with corresponding committees of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Exchange clubs in the county.

Plans for the parade, as announed by Chairman Ragan, indicate that it will be conducted in automobile caravan style, and that it will be one of the biggest civic booster demonstrations ever seen in Orange county.

The procession will be headed by the Santa Ana Municipal band, traveling in a stagecoach. In addition to Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions, Exchange and Knights in more or less fantastic makeups, there will be several floats displaying facts and figures relating to the proposed bond issue.

The parade will assemble at 9:30 a. m., at St. Ann's Inn. Towns to be visited include Orange, Placentia, Brea, La Habra, Fullerton, Anaheim, Los Alamitos, Seal Beach and Huntington Beach. Sections of the parade, made up of the various service clubs in each city, will join the procession, as it passes through the various communities.

Bogus Pedigree Peddlers Reap Great Harvest

LONDON, June 5.—Bogus "pedigree peddlers," who prepare imaginary family histories for Americans seeking to trace their English ancestries have been reaping such harvests that the British press has warned visiting Americans of the swindlers' activities. Pedigrees furnished by the fakers are sometimes very flattering, but close investigation would prove that they are bogus, experts say.

The swindlers look up some ancient family having the same name as the person seeking his own family's pedigree and pass such "family tree" off on the unsuspecting American. Persons seeking accurate information are advised to apply to the College of Heralds in London for the true histories of their forebears.

In almost all legitimate lines of business people distrust both the merchant—and the merchandise—when prices are cut in the mere effort to make a sale.

Price-cutting merchants appeal almost exclusively to thoughtless buyers.

In the motor car business, price-cutting almost always takes the form of extra long "trading allowances".

Often people have taken long trading allowances as a substitute for real value—and found themselves no better off than they were before.

It is almost always safe to say that the dealer who over-bids on an old car in order to sell his new car, is acknowledging that his car is not worth its published price.

Ask yourself whether there is any car you had rather own than the Cadillac—and then buy your car on that basis.

KIWANIS CLUB OF FULLERTON VISITS HARBOR

Fullerton Kiwanis club met in Newport Beach Thursday night for the purpose of making a study of the proposed development of Newport bay. Fifty-five members, under the guidance of J. A. Carmichael and Dale King, president of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, made an hour and a half trip over the bay. All members of the party were astonished at the great extent of the bay and the fact that it extended inland to within five miles of the center of Santa Ana.

Dinner was served at the Yacht club and two hours of discussion of the project followed. At the close of the meeting, the hope was expressed that the bond election of June 10 might be successful. It was clearly shown that the cost of an average of six cents on $100 of assessed valuation in Orange county was nothing, compared with the direct benefit of the harbor development to all parts of the county. It was brought out in discussion on a prospective bond issue for water conservation, that, when these bonds are voted, the share of the burden which properties along the coast would carry, would be in excess of the total bond issue asked for harbor development.

King made the point that, if water conservation work is done as contemplated, water would be developed only for maintenance of present irrigated areas and that new values would not result, while development of the harbor offered the opportunity for creating new values. New values by location of industrials, and by possible advances in values in the harbor district, would assist in relieving taxes on agricultural lands, he commented.

rather standard 30-inch type also are likely to appear as equipment on the newer type of small car when it is presented. The general acceptance of the balloon type tire would permit of the use of a tire of from two to three inches smaller diameter than we have been using. Such a tire would give increased stability on the road and would aid materially in keeping the body height down.

There has been little change in the general appearance of our smaller cars for some time. It is admitted that they do not, at the present time, have the snap and beauty of their next larger cousin.

GUILT IS DENIED IN LIQUOR CASE

F. E. Welsh, 321 East Seventeenth street, arrested Thursday on liquor charges, pleaded not guilty in police court yesterday afternoon. His trial was set for 10 a. m. Friday.

Welsh is being held on charges of transportation and possession of whiskey. Officers allege they found approximately five gallons of liquor in his home.

H. E. Hickson, 35, arrested in connection with liquor traffic, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession, in police court yesterday, and was given a fine of $150, which he was unable to pay. He was committed to jail.

Alfonso to Teach Prince of Wales How to Sit Horse

LONDON, June 3.—King Alfonso of Spain this summer will show his kinsman, the Prince of Wales, how to mount a horse and keep his seat. Alfonso is to play polo at Hurlingham and some of the other fashionable clubs in England. He plays the game with the utmost nerve, dashing with zest into tight places after the ball notwithstanding the flying mallets and the plunging ponies.

The king has been injured several times by his daring, and in consequence of pleas in Spain that he be more careful he gave assurances that he would slacken up somewhat on the spirit he threw into the game.

It has not been recorded, however, that he has lost his vim, and consequently English followers of the sport are expecting this summer to see him chasing the ball down the fields with his usual vigor.

Alfonso, who has not been to London in years, will be accompanied by Queen Victoria and Princess Beatrix, their elder daughter. The Princess is 17 years old and is a good horsewoman.

The Mexican city is approximately 190 miles from Santa Ana and 72 miles below Tia Juana. The road below Tia Juana follows close to the coast, and at this time is in good condition for a dirt road. Under present road conditions, it is possible to make the run from Tia Juana to Ensenada in two to three hours. The road has been worked since the rains, but with heavy summer traffic setting in, it is probable that the highway will be dusty and rough within a month.

Accept Mediation On Railway Wages

NEW YORK, June 3.—After two days of conference here between representatives of eastern railroads and trainmen's and conductors' brotherhoods, it was agreed to submit demands for higher wages and improved working conditions to a mediation board to be appointed by President Coolidge under the Watson-Parker railroad bill. STUTZ WINS

Closed Car SWEEPSTAKES

Yosemite Economy Run

A Stutz Vertical Eight Sedan proved its economical supremacy in the Annual Yosemite Economy Run, conducted under the sanction of the A. A. A., winning the Closed Car Sweepstakes trophy with a record of 46.59 ton miles to the gallon of gasoline.

This showing is remarkable in view of the fact that all the cars entered were closed cars except two. Stutz covered the gruelling course of 360 miles without using any oil and only one pint of water. The rules permitted four carburetor adjustments because of the varying altitudes. Stutz, however, required no such adjustment and went through the entire distance without the carburetor being touched. Red Crown gasoline and Pennzoil were used. This was a contest for stock cars, in which no coasting was allowed. Stutz demonstrated the efficiency of its wonderful oiling and cooling systems in the two days' run over all kinds of roads. It consumed no oil at all in the long, hard climb into the High Sierras, and only evaporated one pint of water from the radiator.

The results of this difficult Run demonstrated what Stutz will do for you.

The Torque Tube is a sturdy backbone for BUICK quality

It holds the rear axle firmly and staunchly in true alignment, regardless of road inequalities.

Twist and wear on the drive shaft and axle are eradicated. Two universal joints are unnecessary.

It would be possible, because Buick has the Torque Tube Drive, to drive a Buick from New York to San Francisco with all four springs broken.

The Torque Tube also seals the drive shaft from the dirt and wear of the road. Look at the strength of the Buick chassis and make a comparison with competitive motor cars, before you buy your next transportation. You can see Buick's superiority with the naked eye.

"We Like Its Economy"
Say Thousands Of Owners

The truth is that the operating cost of a Pontiac Six is lower than that of smaller and less powerful cars—or the difference is so slight as to not be worthy of consideration.

There are thousands of Pontiac Six owners who would gladly bear slightly higher operating costs to enjoy the satisfying performance of the car's six-cylinder engine and its countless other superiorities in beauty, roominess, and riding comfort.

But the fact that they enjoy all these qualities at no additional operating or maintenance cost, is simply another reason underlying the dramatic success the Pontiac Six is scoring the nation over.

YEARBOOK FOR S. A. COLLEGE IS OFF PRESS

"The best ever."

Such was the comment made by the students of the Santa Ana Junior college in lauding the annual college yearbook, "The Algor," issued yesterday.

Much interest was displayed by the students in the book. The dedication to the alumni and instructors was unusual. In adapting the mission motif, six exceptional views of the San Capistrano mission were included.

The annual, edited by Robert O'Brien, is the largest that has ever been issued in the history of the college. It has 128 pages. A new feature was "The Blue Horse" section, written in newspaper style as a parody on the students and organizations of the college.

The art work, under editorship of Miss Frances Knudson, applied the mission motif throughout.

In dedicating the book, praise was extended to "those who have made history for the Dons." The dedication reads: "To the alumni and instructors who have given themselves, their time, and their energies to building a college here; whose unselfish service has inspired those who have followed; whose ability to work under handicaps is now showing its results—to those who have made history for the Dons in years past, this book is dedicated."

Members of the staff were Robert O'Brien, editor-in-chief; Judson Harmon, business manager; Louane Leech, Eleanor Guyer, Mary Elizabeth Rutledge, John McCoy and Edward Padgham, associate editors; Henrik Van Rensselaer, photographic editor; Blanche Thompson, alumni editor; Dora McWaters, society editor; Hugh Stetson, and Earl Bashor, sport editors; and Frances Hall, sports editor. Faculty advisors were Mrs. Robert Northcross, literary; Miss Floyd Donaldson, art; and L. L. Beeman, business.

STUTZ IGNITION IS FEATURE OF MODEL

According to Joe Finley, manager of the Reo and Stutz Sales and Service company, the Stutz Motor Car company has made a radical departure in ignition methods as applied to the modern engine by introducing twin spark plugs on opposite sides of the combustion chamber on the straight eight motor in the new Stutz safety chassis.

"Dual, or twin, ignition systems have been used before, but the new Delco product on the new Stutz is unique in construction in that the sparks are absolutely synchronized since the same cam actuates the two breaker arms," Finley said. "The source of primary current is a single battery, or generator, as the case may be, but there are two sets of transformer coils to step up the voltage."

ANNUAL RUMP CONVENTION IS FEATURED BY CHICKEN DINNER AND ELOQUENT SPEECH-MAKING

Two hundred of the most prominent men in the county ran wild in a riot of fun incident to the rump convention of politicians, held last night at St. Ann's Inn, in compliment to Homer G. Ames, of Anaheim, who recently was appointed to the Orange county bench.

The convention was strictly non-partisan, for men of every political faith were present and participated in the fun and in the actions of the convalesce.

Fortified by a chicken dinner, served by the management of the inn, and made happy by the musical offerings of two transient musicians, the delegates were in shipshape for the opening gun, fired by Dr. R. A. Cushman, chairman of the Orange County Republican committee, when he called the assembly to order and announced that the convention of the representatives of the "common people" was ready to function.

Eloquent Speeches Made. In response to the call for nominations for temporary chairman, Frank C. Drumm, former judge, and Joe Burke, former U. S. district attorney, made eloquent addresses, nominating themselves for the honor. They were followed by other nominations, made by T. E. Stephenson, W. B. Williams and Stanley Goode. Running true to form, Dr. Cushman took the situation in hand and named E. B. Collier as chairman.

The city councilman officiated in the capacity with dignity and demonstrated clearly that he had profited by his alleged association with the Southern Pacific gang in the days when that railroad company was credited with dictating action in the state by the Republican and Democratic parties.

Organization was completed by the appointment of W. C. Jerome, as secretary, and Sid Smithwick, as sergeant-at-arms.

Issues at local persons and county situations were contained in the set of resolutions presented by the resolutions committee.

Addresses that followed ran the range of tribute to the honoree of the evening, recital of old-time political incidents in Orange county, hits at candidates and regrets that health conditions are forcing retirement of Judge Z. B. West.

The speakers included T. L. McFadden, Placentia; J. S. Rice, Tustin; R. Y. Williams, Capistrano; L. A. West, H. C. Head, Santa Ana; H. G. Ames and Z. B. West.

Candidates are introduced as follows:

J. C. Lamb, tax collector; J. C. Joplin, Horace Fine; J. E. Livesey sr., treasurer; Willard Smith, Cal D. Lester, supervisor, fourth district; George Jeffrey, Howard Wassum, supervisor, fifth district; Leonard Ohart, T. B. Talbert, supervisor, second district, the latter asserting that he had not as yet definitely decided to become a candidate for re-election; J. M. Backs, county clerk; James Sleeper, assessor; W. C. Jerome, auditor; H. W. Hilliard, surveyor; C. N. Mozley, district attorney; Kenneth Morri-son, Clinton Ives, J. C. Metzgar, justice of the peace; Jesse Elliott, constable; Sam Jernigan, C. E. Jackson, sheriff; E. J. Marks, James Allen, A. P. Nelson, W. H. Thomas, judge.

Allen made definite announcement that he is not a candidate for one of the positions on the superior court bench.

Many Plays Being Produced In Paris

PARIS, June 5.—The prevalent distaste for the exchange profiteering visitor does not extend to foreign plays. Never has there been so many produced in Paris during the present season, both in the original and in French translations. Pirandello in particular has captured the French stage and at one time there were six of his plays running simultaneously at different theaters. The adapters have now gone through all his first-line works, such as "Henry IV" and "Six Characters in Search of an Author," and are now bringing out his lesser known productions.

Another foreign play that is making a deep impression is Leon Gordon's "White Cargo," the story of how the African sun dries up the Aryan moral sense. First produced in the original English by the English players, a French version is being prepared for early production at the Odéon, the second state theater.

Kings and Queens On Playing Cards Only In 50 Years

BERLIN, June 4.—Herr von Bernstorff, talking of the possible return of the Hohenzollerns to power in Germany, says that in his judgment there is no chance for them either now or at any time.

"In another 50 years there will be no more kings nor queens except on playing cards," he said.

"The whole current of our age is against monarchies. They have no further place in the government of states."

WILLYS FINANCE PLAN

Smaller down payments and smaller monthly payments; the lowest credit cost in the industry

THERE is a real touch of the racing car in this Overland Light Six—low hung for straight line drive—low hung body for gravity balance and stability—wind cutting lines to cut down resistance at speed.

The result is a performance value that will open your eyes as you drive this car over the road.

In a quick burst of speed it will out-accelerate any other light six built at near its price or size class. Over steep grades it will out-pull any other light six you can buy for anywhere near the same money.

These are the features you are looking for. And it will out-wear anything in its class—proved by owners records which show lower cost for maintenance than we have found for any other car of its type.

And it has the "Snap" in body design that makes it a distinctive car to own—real lines, real finish, real upholstery and the roomiest body yet offered in its class. Look it over—try it out—then decide for yourself.

CHIEF OF 1898 WAR VETERANS TO VISIT L. A.

The United Spanish War Veterans of Southern California are looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to the visit of their commander-in-chief, Col. Carmel A. Thompson, of Cleveland, O., who will arrive on the morning of June 7, and remain in Los Angeles until the evening of June 8. Arrangements have been made to entertain him in a manner that will be representative of the hospitality for which Los Angeles is noted in its welcome to distinguished visitors.

Plans for the entertainment of Colonel Thompson have been arranged by an executive committee consisting of the following members of the United Spanish War Veterans, under the chairmanship of A. C. Munson, aid-de-camp to the commander-in-chief and department inspector: Frank W. Inns, national aid-de-camp; Mayor George E. Cryer; Sheriff William I. Treager; Gen. Robert Wankowski; Col. W. G. Schreiber; Capt. A. C. Jewell; Judges Charles S. Craig, William D. McConnell, William Frederickson, J. Morgan Galbreth; Walter Guerin and Dana Weller, Past Department Commanders; P. C. Mulqueeney, John T. Curtin, Wallace Copping and Tom C. Galbraith; Commander Frank J. Zeigler, of Roosevelt Camp No. 9, and Commander Thomas C. Macklin, of Admiral Glass camp No. 36; Dr. H. W. Seager, Charles D. Ray, F. J. Gunther, E. E. Green, Robert G. Clark, Edward Wiget, Charles H. Madden, E. A. Lane, Mrs. Kimble and Lillie Gilly, presidents of the Ladies' auxiliaries.

This committee and as many of the comrades of the U. S. W. V. and the Ladies' auxiliary as can possibly be there will meet the colonel on his arrival at the Southern Pacific depot at 3:45 a. m. The Los Angeles Fire Department band has been secured to assist in the welcome. After an informal reception at the depot, Colonel Thompson will be escorted to the Biltmore, where quarters have been reserved.

A public reception and entertainment will be tendered him at Trinity auditorium, on Monday, June 7, at 8 p. m., when without doubt the largest gathering of veterans of the war with Spain that Los Angeles has seen in years will be in attendance.

Colonel Thompson's visit to the department of California, U. S. W. V., in his capacity of commander-in-chief, is made in conjunction with his mission to the Philippines as the special envoy of President Coolidge. His appointment, it is authoritatively stated by those in close touch with the president, while having for its object first-hand investigation of Philippine affairs, includes investigations in Guam, Hawaii and Samoa, the other insular possessions of the United States in the Pacific.

Through Colonel Thompson, whose practical experience, which includes service as assistant secretary of the interior, treasurer of the United States, and secretary to the president during the Taft administration, the president feels that a comprehensive and accurate report will be forthcoming which will enable him to make recommendations to congress at the outset of the next session in December.

PONTIAC COACH MAKES NEW RECORD IN LOS ANGELES-ALBUQUERQUE ROUND TRIP

This Pontiac Six coach, which recently made a round trip record run from Los Angeles to Albuquerque, was here a few days ago at the garage of the Cadillac Garage company, Santa Ana Pontiac dealer, and created a great deal of interest. George Neville, who drove the car, is shown at the wheel. The average speed for the round trip of 1836 miles was 36.02 miles per hour. Fifty-six minutes were clipped off the previous best time for the round trip run, according to George Ball, sales manager for the Cadillac Garage company. The trip took the car to an elevation of 7288 feet, over deserts and mountains, where only 112 of 918 miles each way were paved.

At the outbreak of the war with Spain, Colonel Thompson volunteered and went to the front as a captain in the Seventh Ohio volunteer infantry. He later became colonel of this regiment. He has been an active member of the United Spanish War Veterans since the inception of that organization, joining as a charter member the camp at Ironton, in 1901. In 1920 he transferred his membership to Garretson camp, of Cleveland, O., which city he makes his home. During the administration of the two previous commanders-in-chief he was chairman of the national legislative committee and at the national encampment, held at St. Petersburg, Fla., in September, 1925, was selected as commander-in-chief.

In connection with Colonel Thompson's appointment to the Philippine commission, the last legislative circular, issued under date of May 13, 1926, and signed by Colonel Thompson as commander-in-chief, has the following significant information, which shows the attitude of the president to the United Spanish War Veterans: "The president, in asking me to accept this duty, paid a high compliment to the United Spanish War Veterans, and stated that he was glad to be able to choose their commander-in-chief for this important duty, as it was the Spanish war that made the Philippine problem and the veterans of that war know conditions and appreciate the problem."

Colonel Thompson will depart for San Francisco on Tuesday, June 8, at 8 p. m., arriving there at 9:30 a. m., June 9, where an enthusiastic reception will be accorded him by the Bay City's veterans. He will depart for Portland at midnight of June 10, and from there proceed to Seattle, from which port he will sail for the Philippines. He is accompanied by Mrs. Thompson and his private secretary.

HARBOR AND BAND COST COMPARED

Would the average voter of Orange county pay as much to have a harbor at Newport Beach as he would to hear a band concert?

This question was asked by a leading merchant today and it was explained to him that the 6 cents on $100 assessed valuation voted by the people of Santa Ana at the recent special election, for the purpose of maintaining the Santa Ana Municipal band, represents the same amount as will be taxed each property holder for the harbor bonds.

A harbor booster made the following comment on this phase of the harbor bond campaign: "Would the people balk at voting the same amount to build a harbor for all Orange county, make safe a condition which is taking the lives of our citizens, and make possible the location of industries which are so badly needed if our city and county are to grow and prosper? Just think, the average voter of Santa Ana will pay as much for city music as it would cost him to have a harbor at his very door."

NOT SO NARROW
Some of the most attractive slips have pleaded flounders or have sections of pleading to widen the hemline.

American exploring expeditions in Mesopotamia believe they have located the "lost city of Opis," one of the first creations of the founders of civilization more than 5000 years ago.

The tulip is believed by many flower lovers to be a native of Holland. Actually, it is of Eastern origin, its name being a corruption of the Persian word for turban.

Spanish Homes Are Destroyed by Ants

HOBBIES HELD BIG FACTOR IN AIDING HEALTH

Hobbies, if wholesome and pursued with moderation, are a factor in promoting health, according to Dr. Edmund M. Mills, a nationally known rose grower, who spoke yesterday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Santa Ana Knights of the Round Table, at St. Ann's Inn.

Dr. Mills is a retired clergyman, making his home in this city. For the last 20 years, he has been interested in rose growing. He is a director of the American Rose society, which maintains headquarters in Syracuse, N. Y.

"Hobbies and How I Ride Them" was the subject of his talk. The speaker pointed out that, as an agency for prolonging life and maintaining health, the hobby, if a worthy one, has no limit. He remarked, however, that a hobby, to prove beneficial to a possessor who has Edmund M. Mills, a nationally known rose grower, who spoke yesterday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Santa Ana Knights of the Round Table, at St. Ann's Inn.

There are certain hobbies, although innocent in themselves which are not beneficial, the doctor explained. One is the popular habit of newcomers to California, men who have reached a ripe old age, to park themselves on the front porch of a California bungalow. And the other, he added, referring to the other sex, is the growing custom of women folks to either act as patronesses or furnish atmosphere for Japanese art auctions staged by enterprising Orientals where curios and antiques are sacrificed at bargain prices.

Dr. Mills insisted that a hobby, in order to prove beneficial, must be divorced entirely from the owner's profession, occupation and customary business activities. He added that, to the observing physician, the value of hobbies, under the classification of habits, is approaching the status of therapeutics.

Joy In Swimming
Discussing his own hobbies, the speaker admitted that, although well advanced in the seventies, he enjoys swimming and never misses a chance to indulge in this healthy pastime.

Turning to his other hobby, he entertained his listeners with a brief talk on garden roses and rose-growing. In conclusion, he suggested that steps be taken by those interested in flowers to organize a chapter of the American Rose society, thus furnishing a stimulant for systematized rose growing throughout the city.

George Ragan was in charge of the program. Included among the entertainers were Miss Audrey K. Fey and Mrs. Jack Kahler, local musicians, who presented several numbers.

Strictly Stock Model with special gear ratio Wins Club Internationale Cup

Skimming the sands of Ensenada Bay beach, a strictly stock Auburn Straight Eight touring car, with special gear ratio, romped across the finish line of a mile course at the rate of 87.8 miles per hour.

This sets an official record for that course and wins for the Auburn the Perpetual trophy offered by the Club Internationale of Ensenada for the fastest official time on its sands made by a stock automobile. It establishes the claims of engineers that Auburn is not only the smoothest running car for all kinds of driving, but that it is capable of making a very high rate of speed.

On the highways in the ordinary run of travel as well as on the speed course, Auburn Straight Eight is noted for its powerful and consistent performance. The car is set low. It is balanced for speed, comfort and road stability. Hills are taken in high. Curves are rounded at 50 miles an hour, and sustained high speed is maintained in all-day driving.

HELEN WILLS LOST TO U. S. WOMEN'S TEAM

BRITISH PROS CRUSH YANKS, WIN GOLF CUP

WENTWORTH CLUB, VIRGINIA WATER, England, June 5.—By the decisive score of 13 1-2 to 11 1-2 British professional golfers today won the Ryder cup in match play against an American team.

Five foursome matches were won by the British stars yesterday and the victors annexed eight of ten singles matches today, halving one and losing the other.

The only Americans to score points were Emmet French, who halved his match with E. R. Whitcombe, and Bill Mehlhorn, who defeated Archie Compston, 2 up.

Long Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen, the great American golf professionals, were crushed in overwhelming defeat by the peers of the British "pros," Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, respectively.

It was the outstanding feature of the one-sided tournament.

The winning score was made when George Gadd finished 8 up and 7 to play on Joe Kirkwood. This was the third singles victory of the day which, coupled with five British victories in the two-ball foursome play yesterday, gave the home pros eight points and the cup.

After the victory was sealed however, the Britishers continued their devastating march through the Americans' ranks. Aubrey Bromberg finished 2 up and 1 to play on T. D. Armour and Ted Ray came in 7 up and five to play on Al Watrous.

There had been no doubt of American defeat after yesterday's team play in which the best of the Americans lost to the British "pros" in every one of the five two-ball foursome matches. Today, with only three singles matches to win to get the cup, the Britishers came in ahead of the Americans in every one of the ten matches during the morning.

GEORGES MAY MEET HUFFMAN AT BORDER

SAN DIEGO, June 5.—"Gorgeous Georges" Carpenter, the French fistic idol, and Eddie Huffman, will meet in a return bout July 4 at Tia Juana. Word to this effect was received here today from Jim Crofton in New York, who backed a number of Tia Juana interests, in promoting the new fight arena below the Mexican line.

Carpenter and Huffman fought a draw recently in Madison Square garden.

BOTH SANTA ANA TEAMS WIN CONFLICTS IN COUNTY LOOP; BATTLE HERE GOES 13 INNINGS

Daley's Swat Gives Legion* Snow Blanks Laguna Beach, 5-4 Win Over Anaheim; Chamber of Commerce Is Long Tilt Thriller

Ed Daley, the curly-haired high school boy, showed why the St. Louis Browns have been dickered for his services when he came up in the last of the thirteenth inning and in regulation Dick Merriwell style blasted a mile-a-minute drive into right field that gave the Santa Ana American Legion a hard-earned, 5 to 4 victory over Anaheim in last night's Orange County Indoor league conflict at Lincoln park here.

Daley's bingle broke up one of the most exciting and best played games ever waged here. Both teams hit viciously and fielded sensationally and there was one thrill after another until the end.

Anaheim came from behind in the eighth, scored three runs and tied the score and the visitors threatened on sundry occasions to pocket the affair. The Bell-Nelson-Daley combine in Santa Ana's outfield, twice served the locals in good stead.

Anaheim broke in front, pushing a run around the horn in the first stanza. The locals tied it up in their half of the second and from there on it was a nip and tuck battle with plenty of hitting but not enough good pinch pitching and fast fielding to keep the contestants scoreless.

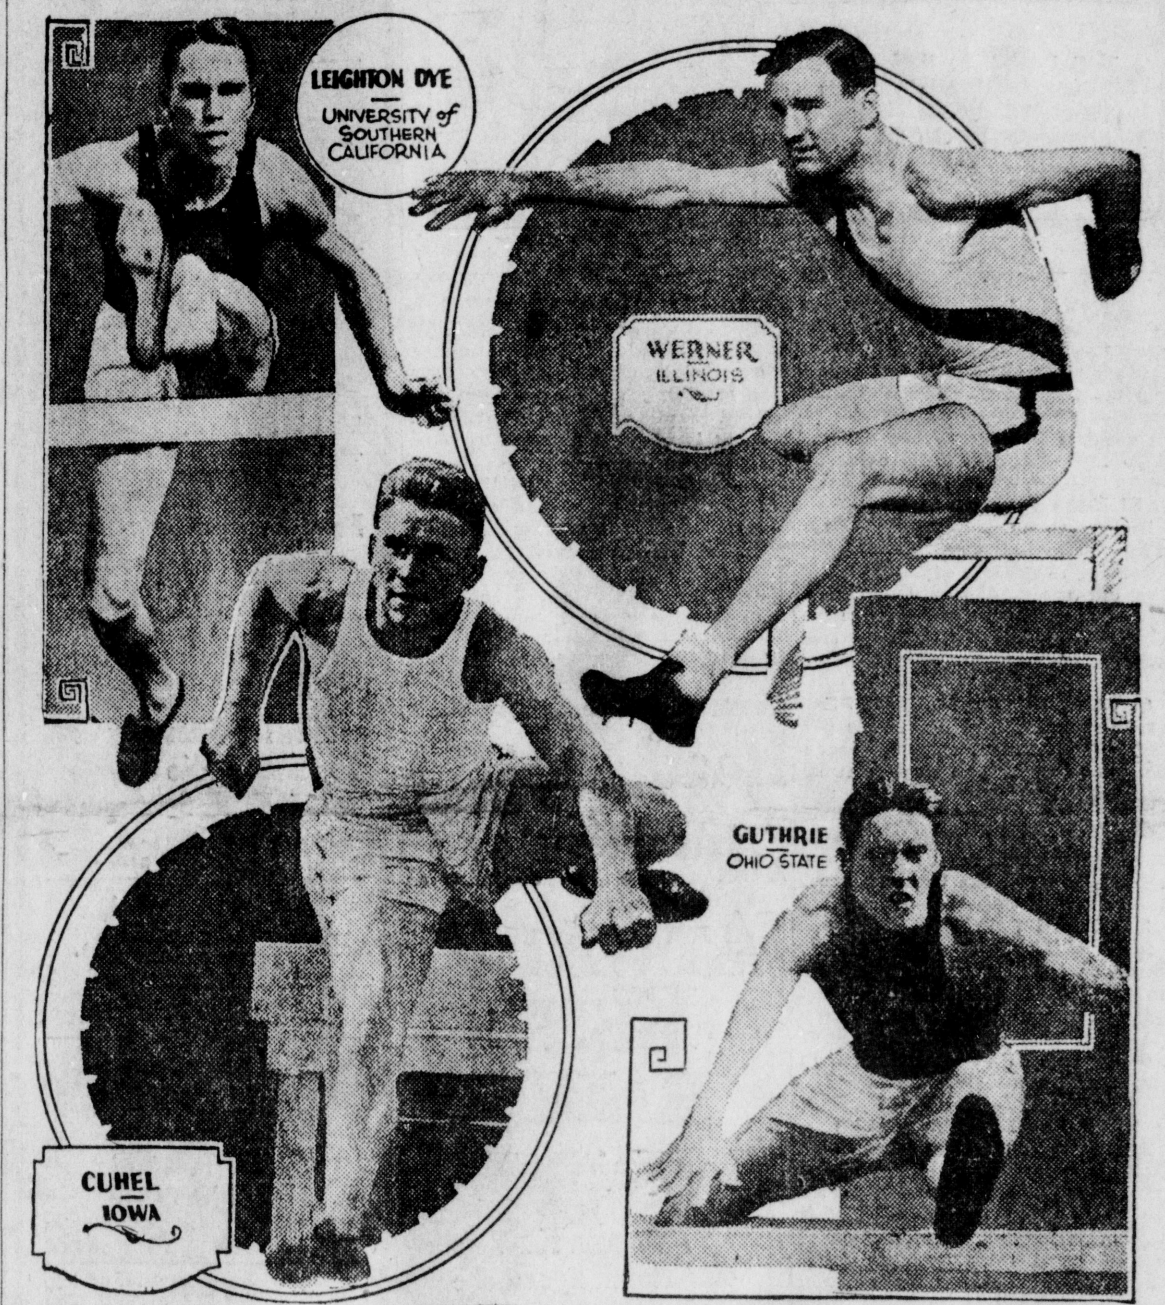

The Santa Anans got to Walker in the seventh, scoring thrice on solid swats but the Mother Colonists were game and came right back in the eighth with three of their own.

Thus, at 4 all, the score stood until the thirteenth when Williams walked, Romo singled and Daley rifled his safety into right that was good for at least two bases.

THERE'LL BE ACTION WHEN THEY CLASH

These four star hurdlers will clash in one of the feature events of the outdoor track and field meet at the national intercollegiate, Chicago, June 11 and 12.

It will be three Big Ten timber-toppers against a far westerner, Guthrie, Ohio state; Cuvel, Iowa, and Werner, Illinois, are the Western Conference entrants, with Leighton Dye, Southern California, the hope of the Pacific coast.

Dye has whipped Guthrie, turning the trick at the Drake games a few weeks ago. Cuvel, likewise, defeated

HUDKINS WRITES PUGILISTIC EPITAPH OF PHIL SALVADORE; SCORES KNOCKOUT IN EIGHTH

HOLLYWOOD, June 5.—Ace Hudkins, Nebraska lightweight, wrote the pugilistic epitaph of Phil Salvador, when he knocked him out in the eighth round here last night.

Poor old Phil was the "pitcher that went to the well" once too often. After taking on the best boys in the lightweight class and frequently beating them, Salvador met his Nemesis in the form of the Nebraska "wild-cat."

Suzanne Sorry At Tennis

Foe's Illness

PARIS, June 5.—"I am absolutely overcome and terribly sorry," Suzanne Lenglen told the United Press when she heard that her tennis rival, Helen Wills, had been forced to undergo an operation, which put her out of the running for international honors this year.

"I hadn't dreamed that Helen was so ill," she continued. "It's terribly hard luck for her."

Mlle. Lenglen said that she had visited the hospital where Miss Wills is a patient, and left flowers. She had not expected to be permitted to see Miss Wills or her mother, but the nurse had told her that perhaps it might be possible by next Tuesday.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's hero—"Dizzy" Vance, Brooklyn pitcher, who returned to form and hurled his first victory of the season, beating the Giants 10 to 1.

Lee Meadows pitched his seventh consecutive victory, the Pirates winning over the Cubs, 5 to 1.

Although gathering only five hits while their opponents were getting ten, Cleveland defeated Detroit, 4 to 3.

While Zachary was shutting out the White Sox, the Browns employed their four hits advantageously and won, 3 to 0.

'CHAMPION MAKER' SAYS HELEN SHOULD NOT PLAY ANY MORE TENNIS THIS SEASON

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—W. C. ("Pop") Fuller, Helen Wills' tennis coach, and the man who is credited with making her a national champion, doubts that Miss Wills will play any more tennis this season.

"I am certain she will recover quickly from the operation," said Fuller today, "but that doesn't mean she will play soon. An appendicitis operation brings about soreness and lameness that is felt on the right side for months. This particularly affects the strokes of a right handed player and I am certain it would bother Helen's training."

Fuller was indignant over the reports from France that Helen's game had deteriorated, as shown by her scores of 7-5, 6-4 with Mme. Goldin.

"Mme. Goldin is a veteran French player and not an unknown player," he said. "I think Helen showed up well against her, considering the fact Helen was probably ill at the time."

"I am certain that Helen would have beaten Lenglen if they could have played. From reports I have received from France, Helen's game has greatly improved since the last time she played Lenglen."

OPERATION TO KEEP GIRL OFF COURTS ABROAD

'Little Poker-Face' Crys As Suzanne Game Off, But Regains Usual Calm

NEUILLY, France, June 5.—Helen Wills, American women's tennis champion, is "doing splendidly," after an operation for appendicitis, and if her improvement continues, she can leave the hospital in ten days and play tennis within a month and a half.

The was the announcement today of Dr. Thierry De Martel, Miss Wills' surgeon.

After her first good cry when she learned that her tennis would be interrupted, Helen recovered her traditional calm. She enjoyed an excellent night's sleep, waking up only at 8 a. m.

"When will I be able to return to the courts?" was the first question she asked the doctor. Other matters did not seem to interest her.

In spite of the optimistic prediction of Dr. De Martel, Miss Wills must miss the all-comers tournament at Wimbledon as well as the rest of the hard court championships at Paris.

Will Recover Rapidly

"Miss Wills has a wonderful constitution and is reacting most favorably to the operation," Dr. De Martel told the United Press this morning. "She is not suffering. At present she is allowed to have only bouillon but her complete recovery will be the most rapid."

American amateur champions thus far have fared unfortunately in their European invasions this summer.

Glenna Collett's opportunity to win the women's golf championship failed to materialize when the tournament was called off because of the British general strike. Bobby Jones suffered a setback in the British Amateur Golf championship at Muirfield and now Helen Wills is tennis courts because of an operation for appendicitis.

Among Americans here and among the many European friends the girl has made since she came to the continent last winter, Helen's illness formed almost the sole topic of conversation today.

It was generally felt that no matter how successful the operation may have been, Miss Wills will be forced to withdraw from the play at Forest Hills late in the summer, as well as from the tournaments here and at Wimbledon. If this were true, her string of consecutive national championships would be broken.

Entry Not Withdrawn

Mary K. Browne, the captain of the American women players, sent word to Helen that her entry had not been withdrawn from the Wimbledon tournament starting June 21 but she expressed the private opinion that Helen would not play again this summer.

Withdrawal of the champion forces the reorganization of the entire Wimbledon team and the new arrangement is uncertain because entries closed last night at midnight.

With Helen out of the singles, doubles and mixed doubles, Miss Browne asked British officials to permit revision of the entries. Mrs. Molla Mallory, former champion, will be asked to join the American team in Miss Wills' place.

Praise of Helen's courage and spirit was heard on every side. That she had run past the hectic Riviera season in poor condition and yet was preparing to meet Suzanne for the second time with unwavering confidence served to increase her popularity.

Announcement of Helen's withdrawal from play here caused a serious slump in ticket sales.

TUSTIN COACH VOTED POST AT ORANGE SCHOOL

Acceptance of an offer to take over the duties of football and track instructor at the Orange high school has been presented by Stewart N. White, coach at Tustin high school.

White, who has been with the Tustin school since September, will succeed Coach M. J. Berg, Orange athletic mentor for three years, who has resigned to accept a more lucrative offer to coach in a large school in the north.

Coach White has had experience both as a player of the games he will coach, and as a coach in schools of the east, and at Tustin high school. A graduate of Ames college, or the Iowa State college, he was selected as all-Missouri valley conference halfback in 1920. A three year period of coaching at Pocahontas high school, Pocahontas, Ia., preceded his coming to Orange county.

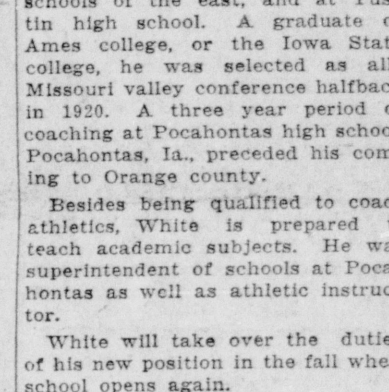

Besides being qualified to coach athletics, White is prepared to teach academic subjects. He was superintendent of schools at Pocahontas as well as athletic instructor.

White will take over the duties of his new position in the fall when school opens again.

S. A. Girl Beats Peggy James In Junior Tourney

Miss Josephine Crookshank, of Santa Ana, who defeated the favorite, Peggy James, 6-0, 6-2, in the feature match of the Southern California Junior championship tournament yesterday, reigns favorite today to win the coveted title when play was resumed at the Midwick Country club, Los Angeles.

Miss Crookshank, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Crookshank, won the Helen Wills cup in the Northern California junior girls' tournament last year.

Helen Wills kept from the tennis courts because of an operation for appendicitis.

RADIO IS HOUSEWIVES' WASHDAY GUIDE!

THOMAS A. BLAIR RADIO FORECASTER

By NEA SERVICE

LINCOLN, Neb., June 4.—Monday isn't always wash day in Nebraska. Now it's the first day in the week that shows promise of fair weather. Hereafter, housewives took their chances at getting fair weather on Mondays and found they had to postpone the drying to late in the week.

Radio has changed this. Radio tells the housewife exactly what sort of weather to expect and permits them to make their plans accordingly.

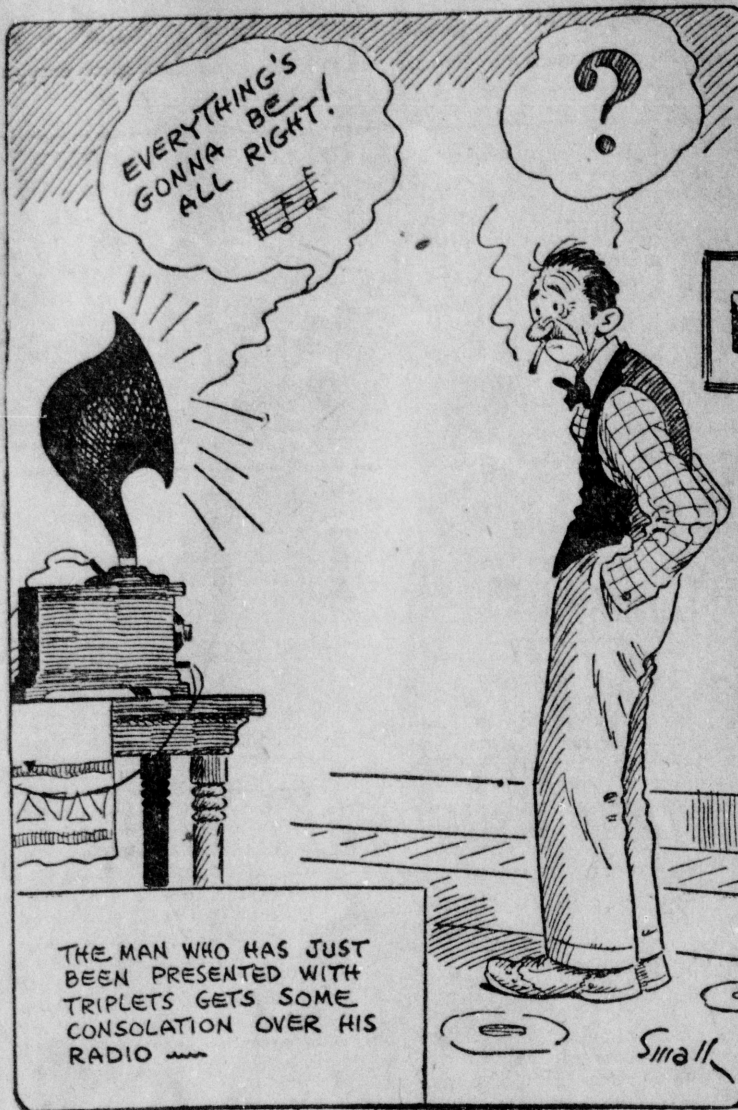

Thomas A. Blair, U. S. weather forecaster for this district, has inaugurated a system of washday forecasting and has gained a wide following through the state. He knows women are following his talks because he has received letters of praise and approval from many women. Some have him at times for missing a good day, but most thank him for his services.

Blair is one of the few weather forecasters who do their own broadcasting. He talks into the microphone by means of a relay wire from his office.

He's good to farmers also. One farmer does his wood chopping by radio, planning his stock of wood for cold days and resting when warmer weather is predicted.

Another farmer cares for his cattle in accordance with Blair's reports and has found he has been saved many a worry over the care of his stock.

USE EIGHT "MIKES"

Eight condenser microphones were used by engineers of WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., to broadcast services from the Grace Episcopal church. The "pickup man" had to be constantly alert to get a good radio reproduction of the services.

RADIOS IN LIGHTHOUSES

Several weeks ago a plea for radio sets was broadcast by the commissioner of lighthouses. More than 380 receiving sets have been received and will be distributed among lighthouse keepers.

RADIO AND THE CHURCH

"Radio co-operates and does not compete with the church," says Rev. Dr. Minot Simons. "The people who stay away from church and listen to the services over radio would probably stay home anyway."

ENIGMA RECEIVERS PASS

Radio users are demanding greater simplicity in radio sets, according to reports to distributors. The old style, cumbersome radio receiving sets are passing and rapidly are being supplanted by less complex instruments.

CRYSTAL SETS IN EUROPE

It has been estimated that 66 per cent of the British radio audience use crystal sets. The English tube, what they call valve sets, are not like ours. The need for combined critical selectivity and long-distance reception is not as important in England as in the United States.

MUSICIAN PREFERS RADIO

It is said of Richard Strauss, composer, that he prefers to broadcast rather than appear at concert halls. According to reports from Vienna, Strauss only appearance there will be with Franz Steiner on a broadcast program.

NEW BROADCAST CHAIN

Five large eastern stations, WPG, Atlantic City, WIP, Philadelphia, WCAE, Pittsburgh, WMAZ, South WCAE, New York, and WGBS, New York, will form a chain to broadcast features from Atlantic City. The first program of this chain will be heard June 12.

RIVER CAUSES FADING

The Hudson river is blamed for the fading of WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., broadcast signals, according to Harry Sadenwater, technical engineer. Sadenwater believes that radio waves travel more rapidly over water than land and this accounts for the distortion known as fading.

PANAMA GETS STATION

Radio fans of the Panama Canal Zone now have a broadcast station of their own. The United States navy has built a broadcast, NBA, which provides the fans with entertainment three nights a week.

ORCHESTRAS WELL PAID

Many broadcasting stations get their talent free while others pay high prices for the music they broadcast. It is said that some orchestras which appear on the regular program of the large broadcasting stations receive as high as $400 an hour for an appearance.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

ANAHEIM HIGH SENIORS WILL GATHER SUNDAY

ANAHEIM, June 5.—Final preparations for the baccalaureate services to be held in honor of the graduating class of the Anaheim union high school tomorrow evening in the auditorium of the school, were completed yesterday.

Seniors of the graduating class, under the direction of Principal J. A. Claves, yesterday rehearsed the part they are to play in the services.

Boys of the manual training department of the school have completed the work of installing special seats on the auditorium platform for the graduates and the rehearsal yesterday was held on the stage.

One hundred and four seniors are to participate in the baccalaureate exercises this year. How many of these will successfully pass the final tests which were taken at the school this week is not known, but it is expected that all or practically all will receive diplomas at the commencement exercises to be held on June 10, Principal Claves said.

Indications are that this year's class will approximate last year's class, which was the largest in the history of the school, Mr. Claves said. Last term, 110 graduates were presented with diplomas.

"The Menace of Education" is the subject of the address which Professor Karl S. Knopf, assistant professor of Biblical literature at the University of Southern California, is to present at the baccalaureate sermon tomorrow night.

The program will also include piano solos by Virginia Long, vocal solos by Alice Ashley and selections by the girls' double quartet.

EL MODENA

EL MODENA, June 5.—On Monday, the following local people, all holding some office in the county Christian Endeavor organization, joined the other officers in a business meeting and a picnic at Camp Baldy: Miss Edith Culler, president; Miss Mabel Culler, Miss Hazel Barnett, Miss Ruth Reed, Miss Irma Moody and Glen Moody.

There was a very enjoyable time had Tuesday evening at Laguna Beach by the teachers and officials of the school. The affair was as a farewell to Professor Berry, who goes next year to La Habra. Mr. and Mrs. Berry were presented with a pair of silver candle holders.

Among those present were the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Berry; Miss Lulu Evans, Miss Williamson, Miss Mary Newcomb, Miss Florence Riddle, Mrs. Mary Smith, Miss Mary Brubaker, Miss Irma Moody, Henry Campbell and daughter, Henrietta; Mr. and Mrs. George Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Binkley, Mrs. E. F. Chapman, Miss Ruth Fish and Miss Elsie Smith.

Mrs. Ida Brownell is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital. Mrs. Brownell has been a teacher here for 25 years.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Read and daughters, Ruth and Amelia, helped Mrs. Read's father, Mr. Souders, celebrate his birthday Sunday at his home in Hollywood.

After the services at the cemetery Monday, Mrs. W. A. Settle and sons, Edwin and daughters, Henrietta and Hazel; Mr. and Mrs. C. Adams and daughter, Miss Eva, and Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, of Santa Ana, enjoyed a picnic dinner at Newport Beach.

Miss Catherine Weed attended a picnic supper Tuesday evening at Serra.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Warner are home from their honeymoon trip to Strawberry Flats. Wednesday evening, they took supper with Mrs. Warner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Settle.

Paul Stoner, of Imperial, is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stoner.

Those who will help in selling and distributing tickets may get them from Mrs. T. E. Turpin.

Only a few of the members of the local P-T-A met with the president, Mrs. Floyd Morris, Wednesday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of that organization. After business was disposed of, it was decided the society should have two "dark" months, July and August, and meet again in September to take up community problems.

Frank Lessig reports a queer accident on Westminster avenue Tuesday morning. A Japanese K. Pamauchi, employed by Albert Moog, of the Deer lodge, was driving his car, when the gears broke. The car ran into a roadside ditch, stood on end and threw the occupants, eight men and four children, out into a nearby field on their heads. No one was hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keenan returned to their home in Stockton Thursday after several days' pleasant visit here with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hare. Mr. Keenan lived in Westminster before his marriage.

Mrs. O. C. Hare was released Friday from duties at the Bolsa school, when that institution closed for the summer. Mrs. Hare will be welcomed into the school faculty here with the beginning of the fall term.

J. L. Edwards is installing a 15 horsepower motor for water work on the Ralph Rumhold ranch.

Prospective teachers for the daily vacation Bible school to be held this summer by the Presbyterian church met with the pastor of the church, Rev. R. A. Weld, on Thursday afternoon to make arrangements for the opening of the school.

On account of so many pressing engagements of one sort and another, it was decided to open the school on June 28. Sessions will be in the morning only and the school will be in operation as long as the attendance holds up. The daily vacation Bible school had its try-out here last year for one week and was very successful. The services of twice as many teachers will be secured for the school this year.

Mrs. C. C. Murdy made a trip to Riverside Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Murdy and children intend moving to Los Angeles as soon as they can get away after school closes in Huntington Beach, where Donlin and Iola attend. The move is imperative on account of all of Mr. Murdy's work being located near Los Angeles and vicinity.

Miss Helen McCoy and Miss Nellie Morris have taken the intelligence test in Santa Ana, which enables them to enter Junior college.

Miss Nellie Morris spent Thursday night as the guest of Miss Matherie Noble in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baxter entertained Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams, of Van Nuys, in their home over the week end.

Miss Fery Byram will receive her diploma from Occidental college on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dauphin and son, Jack, have moved onto the two acres they recently purchased near the Benson place. They will live in one of the Benson houses until they have remodeled the home they moved onto their property.

Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings, D. Sturdevant and Clyde Daniels.

Henry Tuffrey has purchased a 20-acre ranch from B. R. Shinn, of Anaheim. The land lies just south of Anaheim and is planted to potatoes, berries and cabbage. The consideration was $20,000. Mr. Tuffrey plans to set it out to Valencia orange trees and persimmons as soon as the present crop of fruit and vegetables is harvested.

Miss Nellie Morris spent Thursday night as the guest of Miss Matherie Noble in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baxter entertained Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams, of Van Nuys, in their home over the week end.

Miss Fery Byram will receive her diploma from Occidental college on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dauphin and son, Jack, have moved onto the two acres they recently purchased near the Benson place. They will live in one of the Benson houses until they have remodeled the home they moved onto their property.

Three Pay $55 For Fast Driving

ORANGE, June 5.—Herman Dargatz paid $25 into the city recorder's speeding fund yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to a charge preferred against him by Officer H. M. McKague of reckless driving in Orange County park.

Rufus C. Longmire, Anaheim, was assessed $15 for traveling 42 miles per hour in a 30-mile zone. O. A. Thomas, Orange, paid $15 for exceeding the speed limit at an intersection to the extent of 40 miles per hour.

ORANGE, June 5.—Laying of forms for foundations for a new $4500 home for D. Baden, 663 East Culver street, took place today at 730 East Culver street.

EVENING SALUTATION

A beautiful moment snatched from the day,
As it passes swiftly on its way,
Is worth to you a thousand crowns
To help you bear life's ups and downs.
—Inez E. Biersdorf.

ARGUMENTS ARE ALL IN

It seems to us that about all that's to be said for and against the Fellowship of Youth for Peace movement has been said. We don't know that anyone who believed sincerely that the movement was one in which any loyal son or daughter of America could join wholeheartedly and without the slightest danger of becoming tinged with unwholesome, unpatriotic doctrine has had his or her mind changed by the investigations that have been made, and we feel quite sure that those who saw the movement as a menace to American institutions are of the same opinion still.

However, it would appear that all of the available material on the question has been brought together in Santa Ana, in the hands of committees of organizations vitally interested in the controversy. This material is so massive that it cannot possibly be published in The Register. Substantial reviews from both sides have been published, and the material in the hands of each is accessible to any reader interested in going further into the information at hand.

With that situation, it seems to us that the controversy so far as The Register is concerned can very well be brought to an end. We have given whatever space either side has asked for in order to present its views.

We regret the fact that the discussion brought about in the minds of any person any question concerning the loyalty of instructors in the Santa Ana Junior college. The Register, when the situation first developed, expressed its confidence in the loyalty and sincerity of the instructors and the students of the Junior college who had taken part in the local peace movement organization. We have had no reason to change our opinion in that regard. Rather, our confidence has been strengthened. The high standing of the faculty of the Junior college as a part of the state university is assurance of the satisfactory citizenship of members of the faculty as well as an assurance of their satisfactory standing for ability, training and success as instructors.

NOT ENOUGH POLICEMEN?

Now we have another explanation of crime in America—stinginess. A "professor of public law" says:

"You can't get rid of crime until you are willing to pay the cost of getting rid of it. The people have a feeling that they can't afford to hire enough policemen and pay for effective probation, although they can afford to have their banks held up again and again by the same people."

"London has 20,000 policemen. New York, with the same population, has 13,000. This ratio will probably hold generally throughout the country. The answer is American parsimony."

No single explanation will account for so complex a thing as a "crime wave," but there is possibly something in this.

American cities are not "stingy." They spend a great deal of money on their local government. They probably spend more on their police force than British cities, because salaries are higher here. But they do have fewer policemen per capita, and spend less on them according to their resources, than the British do.

Nothing tends to deter crime more than the frequent sight of a policeman on the street and the knowledge that there is always one not far away. The mere sight of uniforms, as automobile speeders will confess, has a good effect on would-be law-breakers, but as indicated in an address Tuesday in Santa Ana by Senator Lyman M. King, lax law enforcement by the courts is largely responsible for the crime situation in America. We need more vigor in our courts to handle effectively the case brought to them by our policemen.

LOST LETTERS! WHOSE FAULT?

"If a letter is worth writing it is worth addressing properly," remarks a newspaper, apropos of the harrowing statistics from the United States dead letter office.

In the fiscal year ending June, 1925, 17,000,000 letters were destroyed there. Most of them arrived at that sad end because of incorrect or inadequate address or absence of the sender's return address.

Perhaps it is not always possible to use the correct address. The writer may have lost the address needed, or the person addressed may have moved. But there seems to be hardly any reason for persons who are not absolutely homeless globe-trotters to fail to put on every envelope a legible return address.

As the dead letter office observes, more than 17,000,000 persons sent out letters that never reached their destinations, and more than 17,000,000 persons never received communications intended for them. And many of the lost letters were really important. The Santa Ana post office sends from 25 to 50 wrongly addressed letters each week to the Dead Letter office, everyone of which has no return address.

What can Uncle Sam do about it? Probably no more than he is doing already, which is to carry on a continuous publicity campaign, telling letter-writing citizens the necessity for those two simple things—the complete, correct address, if possible, and the return address. The rest is up to the letter-writers.

The Standard Oil company is getting slow. It has an oil well in the Arctic, but hasn't yet established a gas station at the Pole.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

"Admirable work is being done in music in the public schools of this city," writes a music critic in one of the larger cities. "This was convincingly demonstrated by the chorus of 500 high school students, all seniors, in a performance of Cowen's cantata, 'The Rose Maiden'."

The critic goes on to speak of the fresh, clear voices of the singers, the good quality of tone, its impressive volume, and the distinct pleasure to the hearers of the performance. The children sang with spirit, with alert response to the director's baton, and with precision. They knew their music by heart.

This was not a chorus especially trained for public appearance. It received its training in the course of regular public school music instruction. Undoubtedly many other cities could put on similar performances.

In addition to the chorus singing, school pupils all over America play in bands and orchestras. They participate in many different parts of the country in delightful and highly instructive music memory contests. Some technical high schools teach music theory and harmony for which college entrance credits are given. Even the younger children in the grade schools do splendid singing and have their instrumental organizations.

It is a happy educational development. Far from detracting from such "practical" subjects as the multiplication tables or even solid geometry, the music should enrich and illuminate them.

A lot of people work themselves to death for a little leisure.

The Billboard Evil

Riverside Enterprise

The Community Arts Association of Riverside has asked The Enterprise to say something regarding the huge and glaring billboards which of recent years have become an accepted feature of every rural landscape and almost every vacant lot within the borders of municipalities. Surely any effort to rid California's hills and meadows of unsightly signboards is worthy of support.

There seems to be a systematic campaign throughout the country to do away with the monstrosities which line the roadsides. The voters of Massachusetts by an enormous majority adopted a constitutional amendment providing that "Advertising on Public ways, in public places, and on private property within public view may be regulated and restricted by law." This action was followed by the licensing of billboards, with the authorization of cities to provide such further regulations as they deem suitable. The licensing law is said to have had a salutary effect, for few permits are being applied for and licenses have been allowed to lapse on some 3000 signboards. California might well adopt a similar law; it certainly ought to be in the front rank of any movement designed to prevent violation of natural scenic beauty.

Many cities are taking steps to end the signboard evil. In Kansas City the Merchants Association obtained the co-operation of the merchants to take down billboards. San Antonio, Tex., has been especially active in crusading against the disfiguring signs. That city has an ordinance requiring a $15,000 bond and license for erecting signs.

Many of the national road associations which are working for the improvement of highways across the country are solidly opposed to walling in these roads with gaudy, ugly signs. On the Spanish Old Trail between San Antonio and Borneo sixteen truckloads of signs already have been removed.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs have a special committee working for the abolition of the signboard abuse, and with 5,000,000 women backing them up it is to be expected they will have a considerable degree of success.

Riverside City and County are far from being free from the signboard evil. Box Springs grade cannot be used as a horrible example. That bit of rugged western scenery is lined from top to bottom with every variety of signboard, advertising everything from hotels to collars. What a few years ago was a typical mountain drive has become a road way whose most striking views are hedged in and out off by cheap billboard displays.

The General's Whiskers

San Francisco Chronicle

General Burnside's niece lost her $150,000 suit against a manufacturer who printed the General's picture in a shaving cream advertisement. The picture in question was not doctored so as to exaggerate the General's whiskers. They were, in fact, whiskers that it would be hard to exaggerate. And since they were the General's own idea, and he doubtless was proud of them, the New York courts have ruled that neither the niece nor the reputation of the General has suffered from publication of the picture.

It would have been a pity had the courts decided the other way. The General's whiskers are a national tradition. They make life just a little brighter for all who behold them in the picture. Even in a day when ingenuity was taxed to invent fashions for concealing the human countenance behind a hedge of hair, the General's whiskers stood out, fiercely bristling a challenge to produce anything in that line. They rank as one of the wonders of nature along with Niagara Falls and Yosemite. The courts are to be congratulated for holding them to be public property.

Don't Snicker at Girls Nickers

Oakland Tribune

The hiker is so well established in California that we see nothing unusual about a girl wearing khaki knickers. Of course, when she wears a floppy picture hat and silk hose along with her marching suit, a girl is pardonable. But, generally speaking, when anyone pokes good-natured fun at the hikers for their costumes, we set the joker down for a stranger.

Now, stranger or no, criticizing hikers' costumes is going to be dangerous if a style set by a judge in faraway Boston becomes general. A woman describing herself as a social worker passed some comments on the knicker suit costumes worn by two girls who are hiking around the world and who happened to be passing through Tremont street. The girls called a policeman, who took the social worker in charge. A police judge heard the story and sent the woman to the psychopathic hospital for observation.

With such a champion girl hikers can wear knickers and never fear for snickers.

PREVENTION OF PLAGUE

It is an exceedingly difficult task to prevent the introduction of plague in rats without paralyzing our commerce, though every reasonable effort is being made to prevent the importation of infected rats by means of inspections, fumigations, and other measures.

It is not possible in this article to discuss the measures necessary for the control of plague once it is present in a given population. It may be said, however, that the pneumonic form is best combated by isolating the cases and preventing the travel of persons who have been exposed.

It is very important, by the development of economic conditions among all classes, to obviate the necessity for people living huddled together under insanitary conditions and being forced to subsist on poor and insufficient food.

In other words, the prevention of slums; and the way to prevent slums is to give every one a living wage, a decent place to live, and enough good plain clothes to wear and food to eat.

The fight against the bubonic and the septicaemic types of plague is a fight against rodents, chiefly rats. Rats can be fought effectively in only one way, namely, by the ratproofing of buildings, preferably at the time the buildings are constructed. Ships also ought to be made as nearly ratproof as possible.

What is the treatment for plague? Unfortunately, in the pneumonic and septicaemic types of this disease, almost nothing can be done. In the bubonic plague, fresh anti-plague serum should be given freely as early in the course of the disease as possible.

Faith Makes Wheels Go Around

Pasadena Star News

Just plain, ordinary, everyday faith. This is the strong, secure foundation of human relations. It is faith of one human being in another—faith of the individual in the masses, and faith of the masses in the individual—that holds society together. Without faith modern commercial transactions, on gigantic scale, would be utterly impossible. Bank clearings in the United States run into the billions monthly, into the tens of billions annually. Ninety-five per cent of all these transactions are done on faith. Commercial paper is a giant, actual cash is pigmy, in business transactions. It would be utterly impossible to carry on business and industry, commerce and the multifarious activities and dealings in manufactures, trade and transportation if each and every transaction had to be settled in cash. These operations move with extreme facility, without jar or jolt, with five per cent, or less, of the total volume done on actual cash basis. Commercial paper is the greatest of all circulating media. And back of commercial paper—under it and around it—is faith—just unvarnished, unadorned faith.

And so in political and social functionalities and relations. Government at Washington; government at Sacramento and other state capitals; government at the county seat, in the township and in the municipality, lives and is upheld without question, because the people have abiding, persisting faith in the integrity of government and of those entrusted with governmental functions.

Faith is the mightiest influence and the most puissant force in the economic, political and social realm.

Worth While Verse

TO AN OLD SPANISH SHAWL

Your folds have wrapped the subtle warmth of bodies
That have returned once more into the earth;
You have lain like a silken breath of laughter
Across dim hearts in which young love had birth.

Wan tears that have fallen on your life and luster,
And you have whirled to a forgotten dance;
Your fringe is tangled with the weight of passion
And woven with the fragments of romance.

Oh, you have trembled in an ardent manner
When arms have clasped you close, and suddenly
Your colors have flashed out in foreign cities
And shivered to the gray mists of the sea.

Grim tragedies have joined the long procession
That silently has passed your loveliness,
And you have covered with a warp of beauty
Mad secrets that the world could never guess.

Your quaint embroideries perhaps are faded,
The freshness of your fabric—that has fled!
But you have thrilled to splendor at the magic
Of throbbing centuries, forever dead.

—Margaret E. Sangster in the New York Times.

Little Benny's Note Book

By Leo Page

Pop was smoking and thinking and ma was putting crooked things strate and strate things crooked, and I went in saying G ma, G pop, you awt to see all the powder Glad-dis is putting on her face, you mite think she was disguising herself as a snow scene or something.

Yee gods, have I got a dawter or a sack of flour? pop sed.

Now Willyum calm yourself, gerls will be gerls, ma sed.

They won't if they can help it, they'll be circus clowns, pop sed.

Wich jest then Glad-dis came in with even more powder on her face than usual, saying, Well, olive oil, fokes, you properly wont be up wen I get home.

You better not go out if you dont feel quite well, pop sed.

Wat do you mean, if I felt any better Id be arrested for singing in the streets, Glad-dis sed.

Nonsents, you cant fool me with your forced cheerfulness, your as pale as a ghost, pop sed.

Wy father, I am not, I mean I certeny never felt less pale, you must imagine it, Glad-dis sed, and pop sed, No I dont either, your as white as a sheet, Ill leave it to Benny.

G, you certeny are, Glad-dis, you better get away from those stairs before you fall down them and wake up in the hospitlle, I sed, and ma sed, O, wake up, Glad-dis, dont you see their tawking about the powder on your face.

Have I got too mutch on? Glad-dis sed.

Well I dont think so, the way the gerls are wearing it, ma sed, and pop sed, That so, I think you could get another half pint to stay on if you wawked with your face tilted backwards.

O, wat do men know? Glad-dis sed. And she went downstairs and looked at her face in the hall mirror and put a little more on.

ON THE SIDE LINES

A Record of Individual and Independent Opinion.

(Which may or may not be in harmony with the views of the Register.)

AS TO OUR SCHOOLS — In Redlands, the other day, the Baroness Otilio De Ropp delivered her usual address which deals largely with the danger of permitting the doctrines and principles of the Russian Soviet to obtain a foothold in this country. The good lady, however, in her anxiety to warn the American people of the danger referred to, makes some statements which she would have considerably difficulty in establishing as true.

In the beginning of her campaign, she told of the wonderful progress made by Communistic sentiment in the public schools of Pasadena, of the one hundred Pasadena high school pupils who had banded themselves into an organization to "carry on" the ideals and doctrines of the Soviet, and who were a button showing a likeness of Lenin.

When these charges were shown to be absolutely and unequivocally untrue, the lady denied having made them.

Later she told of how much work was being done to foster Communistic sentiment among the school children of Pomona. Just now, it would seem, from her Redlands talk, the public schools of Los Angeles are simply reeking with Bolshevick sentiment.

Now, we have as fine, as thorough, and in every way excellent, public schools here in California as may be found on earth. They are teaching Americanism not Bolshevism. Any statement to the contrary is grossly unfair and untrue.

AMERICANISM IS TAUGHT— Let us consider this matter of how the schools of California are being conducted, and what they are teaching, just a little further.

They are under the active supervision of Will C. Wood, who has no superior in the country as an educator of experience, of ability, and who has the very highest standing as a patriotic American citizen. Will C. Wood has made careful personal and detailed investigation of the state, particularly those in reference to the Pasadena schools, and has declared them to be absolutely without foundation in fact.

We all are, and should be, proud of our public school teachers here in California.

Thousands of them have grown old in the service, while other thousands are themselves products of our common schools and higher institutions of learning. They were born and reared in this country, they love it, and believe in it, and in its institutions. To assert that such a corps of teachers would permit, to say nothing of fostering and encouraging, any propaganda designed to undermine the state, is an insult to the thousands of teachers who are making California schools a credit to this nation.

It is, of course, a comparatively easy matter for a lady whose knowledge of that which she presumes to discuss must, of necessity, be very limited, to make such charges. But in the matter of proof of the truth, or any evidence of the truth, of the charges made by the Baroness De Ropp—oh, the barrenness of the Baroness!

HER WORK IS HER MONUMENT—Almee Semple McPherson is dead—drowned while bathing alone and unattended in the Pacific ocean.

Up to this writing, more than two weeks after her death, the sea has not given up its dead. It may never do so until the judgment day.

But there seems no adequate reason for doubting that the lady is drowned. If she is to be judged by her life and works she was undoubtedly a power for righteousness and for the uplifting of humanity.

Being dead, and especially under circumstances nothing short of tragic, the unwarranted gossip and unfounded rumor circulated as to her having been seen and recognized in the living flesh at various points, from Sacramento on the north to the Mexican border on the south, during the past two weeks, are, to state it mildly, very uncalled-for and very unkind.

Her sorrowing mother, her children, and the thousands of others to whom she had endeared herself already are bearing a sufficiently heavy burden of grief. That burden should not be made greater by unfounded gossip regarding her "mysterious" death. There was, and is, nothing mysterious about it, except that God in His wisdom, permitted her to be taken from this world where she was accomplishing a great work.

GET YOURSELF A LIBRARY

—There is no sufficient reason why anyone should be without a library, now that an Eastern publishing house offers a series of twelve books for the extremely low price of $1.98.

Think of it! One dollar and ninety-eight cents, plus postage, for twelve bound books delivered to your home!

And the contents of those books. Well, here is what the publishers say, as to that:

"You won't stop reading a single one of these twelve live, interest holding books until you have finished the last one, for they are full of murderous steel knives brandished in the air, barking sixshooters, screams of beautiful women, moans of defenseless men, treacherous, blood-thirsty villains and gallant rescues."

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

The press dispatches tell of a student at Reed college, Portland, Oregon, who is paying his way in that institution of learning by washing dishes in a restaurant. It is a hundred to one bet that this boy washes dishes to the very best of his ability and does it well.

One judges from the fact that he has just been awarded the first prize of $1000 in a national contest conducted by the Chemistry Foundation, Inc. at New York.

The winning essay was entitled "The Relation of Chemistry to National Defense."

Paying his way through college by washing dishes and, incidentally, winning a thousand dollars by means of his industry and ability!

Yes, America is yet the land of opportunity, where industry, courage, persistence and brains win out, even when handicapped by poverty.

HOLD ELECTION, ANYWAY—

In Orange county a very large proportion of the county editors—and all editors in Orange county—come under that classification. They have declared for the renomination of Governor Richardson, who was for years a country editor.

Other counties throughout the state report what is practically the same condition of affairs—the country editors are strong for the present governor's retention in office.

However, it may be just as well to go ahead and hold the primary election, and give everybody a chance to register his or her sentiments on the subject.

VERDICT FOR THE PLAIN—

TIFF—The Hemet News offered prizes for the best letters written on the subject of Hemet's Advantages as a Home.

The letter awarded first prize concluded with the statement: "When you once live in Hemet you just can't live anywhere else."

Which would most certainly seem to be an unanswerable argument in favor of continuing to live in Hemet.

Confidence Essential To Success in Banking

Banking offers a splendid field of public service to the young man of good character and judgment who seeks to enter it not solely for what he can get out of it himself but for the good that he can do to others, says S. W. Straus, nationally known financier and head of the great banking house of S. W. Straus & Co.

"No special training or particular amount of education is necessary for the young man who is willing to start at the very bottom in this business," says Straus. "But no one should attempt to enter it who is without sterling character, honesty and judgment."

"I should say that one of the primary requisites for success in banking is the virtue of thrift. The young man who has acquired this habit will reflect the confidence in his dress, speech and conduct which thrift begets."

"Confidence is the main essential to a banker's progress. Without it he cannot succeed. The work of a beginner in the field of banking is usually at the very bottom of the ladder. Beginners start quite often as messengers and clerks."

"From that point they progress on up through the various departments or as tellers in the cages where people deposit and withdraw their money."

"The technical end he can acquire later. But let him bring with him to begin as his tools thrift and honesty. These will advance him far. The rest depends upon himself."
